INSISTING HE'S RIGHT, MAYOR SAYS HE WILL YIELD TO THE COUNCIL

Offers to Preside Over Election of Purchasing Agent at the Meeting Monday "Simply in Interest of Peace"

MOVE TO IMPEACH MAYOR WILL NOW BE ABANDONED

If Mayor Voluntarily Appears in Council Chamber and Offers to Preside Council Members Will Be Satisfied

Mayor James G. Woodward, for the first time in the three years he has been dealing with a majority of council against him, has bowed to the will and might of that body.

The mayor announced Monday morning that he would send a message to council offering to preside at the election by council of a purchasing agent, the thing he refused to do a week ago today.

Mayor Woodward will not say what his message to council will contain, but intimates that he will tell the city fathers that he has made the concession simply in the interest of peace and harmony and to stop sensational talk which he says is hurting the city.

WILL SATISFY FOES.

This will satisfy the members of council who had determined to impeach the mayor for refusing to preside over the election, and who claimed they had the two-thirds majority necessary to impeach.

That is, it will satisfy them provided Mayor Woodward comes to council chamber without being sent for and voluntarily offers to preside over the election.

Alderman Charles H. Kelley and Alderman Jesse W. Armistead, who were leading the movement to impeach, Monday made a canvass of their supporters, following the mayor's announcement of a willingness to preside, and found these members of council willing to let the impeachment drop.

There is evident, however, a disposition on the part of council members to take away from the mayor still more of his power, and to this end they will probably take the fire department out of the hands of the board of firemasters, which is simply a committee of council named by the mayor, and place it under the control of a board elected by council, similar to the other departmental boards of the city.

Furthermore, council members are discussing a charter amendment to take from the mayor the appointment of the standing committees of council and place in council's hands the election of its own standing committees.

LEONARD PHILLIPS, TEN, STRANGELY MISSING

Boy, Last Seen Thursday, Said He Was Going Fishing at Piedmont

Grave fears for the safety of Leonard Phillips, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Phillips, 208 Peachtree street, who disappeared Thursday afternoon, were expressed Monday by his parents. The city of the police force, both city and county has been invoked and a careful search is being made for him.

Young Phillips, who is a student of the Calhoun Street school, was last seen Thursday afternoon at the intersection of Piedmont and Ponce de Leon avenues by one of his classmates. He told the boy he was going fishing in Piedmont park lake.

Phillips is described as having brown eyes and hair, a very small mouth, short neck, dimples and heavy eyelashes. He was dressed in dark blue trousers, a blue shirtwaist, gray cap, black stockings and black button shoes.

Any news of him will be gratefully received by his parents, who can be reached by phone, Ivy 1681.

POLICE TURN SILVERWARE OVER TO MISS HORNADAY

Negro Boy Arrested by Officers Is Also Given His Liberty

Miss Nina Hornaday, of 66 East Linden street, has recovered her stolen silverware, with the exception of several pieces found missing.

It was stolen from her house on Saturday, May 15. Her report to the police with full description of each piece of the silver brought no result. Then she offered through The Journal to buy it back from the thief.

Last Saturday night A. L. Holbrook, a neighbor of Miss Hornaday, found the silverware on his front porch, tied up in a grocery sack, and called a little boy on the place to open it. Miss Hornaday and the police were notified. The police came and got the silverware and the negro boy and hailed them to police station.

Sunday Miss Hornaday went there and prevailed upon the authorities to let her have it, and Monday she called up The Journal and expressed her appreciation of the service the paper had rendered in her behalf.

Meanwhile Mr. Holbrook succeeded in persuading the police to turn loose his negro boy.

BOND COMMITTEE TO MAKE REPORT TODAY

The city council Monday afternoon will receive a report from the bond committee, asking that an election to issue $3,500,000 worth of bonds for municipal improvements be called.

The largest items in the list are $1,000,000 each for schools and sewerage.

It is likely that council will call the election.

MERCURY ROMPS UP TO 90 DEGREES MONDAY

Hottest Weather Since September Registered Sunday With 90.1 Degrees

Sunday at 2 o'clock the weather bureau thermometer registered 90.1 degrees, the hottest weather since September and one of the hottest May days on record.

And Monday is just as hot. The temperature at 12 o'clock was 86 degrees, and the temperature at 2 o'clock was right around 90 again.

From East Lake to Brookhaven, including all intermediate splashes, the swimming resorts did a rushing business, while in the pools of Y. M. C. A., Athletic club and other organizations they were so thick you couldn't stir them with a stick.

Some slight relief is promised for Monday night and Tuesday in the form of cloudy weather.

COMMITTEE WORKS ON JUNE FINANCE SHEET

Members Confident Receipts Will Justify Anticipation of Revenue

The finance committee of council began work on the June appropriations sheet Monday, and the members of the committee are confident the receipts will show that the anticipation of revenue made in the January sheet is justified.

A tentative budget, made out by the chairman of the committee, A. W. Farlinger, and B. G. West, of the comptroller's office, shows the committee must add at least $37,000 to the disbursement side of the ledger to care for essential increase in the expenses of the departments.

Alderman Edgar Dunlap, one of the members of the committee, was requested to work out a plan for decreasing the expense of maintaining the contagious disease and detention hospitals, and it is likely, as a result, that several employees of the health department will lose their jobs. Alderman Dunlap declared the expenses of the two institutions are entirely too high, while two other city hospitals, the Grady and the Battle Hill sanitarium, are suffering because of a lack of funds.

The committee voted tentatively to increase the salaries of two visiting nurses employed by the health department from $60 to $85 per month.

Judge and Mrs. Spencer Atkinson appeared before the committee to ask that the city appropriate sufficient funds to establish classes of domestic science in at least three of the grammar schools. This work would require an appropriation of $2,000 and no definite action was taken by the committee.

Mrs. Atkinson told the committee that the better training in domestic science of school girls would do much toward lessening the number of divorces.

"Good meals and a comfortable home," she told the committee, "go far toward making a man happy and satisfied, and keeping young couples happy."

The finance committee agreed to authorize the trustees of the Grady hospital to employ an investigator in order that people who are financially able to pay for hospital attention shall be forced to do so or refused admittance to the hospital. The matter was left in the hands of the trustees, who meet Tuesday afternoon, because of a doubt as to the legality of requiring people to pay the hospital.

AMERICANS SHOULD SET WORLD RIGHT, DECLARES WILSON

President Expresses Hope That Americans Might Show the Old World the Path of Peace

ADDRESS FINANCIAL CONFERENCE IN CAPITAL

Declares That if Private Capital Does Not Establish Physical Communication Between Americas, U. S. Will

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, May 24.—President Wilson, speaking at the opening of the Pan-American financial conference here today, expressed hope that the Americans might show the world the path of peace. He was loudly applauded by the delegates who represent eighteen South and Central American countries.

The president declared the people of the Americas were not trying to make use of one another, in spite of the "handsome rivalry," which is good for nations.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

President Wilson spoke as follows:

"There can be no sort of union of interest if there is a purpose of exploitation on the part of any person connected with a great conference of this sort. We are not, therefore, trying to make use of each other, but we are trying to be of use to one another.

"It is very surprising to me, it is even a source of mortification, that a conference like this should have been so long delayed, that it should never have occurred before, that it should have required a crisis of the world to show the Americas how truly they were neighbors to one another. If there is any one happy circumstance, gentlemen, arising out of the present distressing circumstances of the world, it is that it has revealed us to one another; it has shown us what it means to be neighbors, and I cannot help harboring the hope, the very high hope, that by this commerce of minds and commerce of trade, as well as commerce in goods, we may show the world a part of the path to peace.

"It would be a very great thing if the Americans could add to the distinction which they already wear, this of showing the way to peace and permanent peace. The way to peace for us, at any rate, is manifest. It is the kind of way which does not involve aggression. It is the knowledge that men can be of the greatest service to one another and nations of the greatest service to another when the jealousy between them is merely a jealousy of excellence, and when the basis of their intercourse is friendship.

TRADE ADVANTAGE.

"There is only one way in which we wish to take advantage of you, and that is by making better goods, by doing the things we seek to do for each other better, if we can, than you do them, and by rendering a better service, if we might, by a handsome a jealousy as that to excel us.

"I am so keenly aware that the basis of personal friendship in this connection is excellence that I am perfectly certain that this is the only basis for the friendship of nations. I think handsome rivalry, this rivalry in which there is no dislike, this rivalry in which there is nothing but the basis of a common elevation in great enterprises which we can undertake in common.

"There is one thing that stands in our way among ourselves—for you are more conversant with the circumstances than I am—and that is chiefly in mind is the physical lack of means of communication, the lack of vehicles, the lack of ships, the lack of communication, the lack of terminals, the lack of ships, the lack of established routes of trade—the lack of those things which are absolutely necessary if we are to have true commercial and intimate commercial relations with one another; and I am perfectly clear in my judgment that if private capital cannot soon enter upon the adventure of establishing these physical means of communication, the government must undertake to do so. We cannot indefinitely stand apart and look each other for the lack of what can easily be supplied, and if one instrumentality cannot supply it, then another must be found which will supply it. We cannot know each other unless we see each other, we cannot deal with each other unless we communicate with each other. So soon as we communicate and upon a familiar footing of intercourse with one another, we shall understand one another, and the bonds between the Americas will be such bonds that no influence that the world may produce in the future will ever break them.

ENLIGHTENED BUSINESS.

"If I am selfish for America, I at least hope that my selfishness is enlightened. The selfishness that hurts the other party is not enlightened selfishness. If I were going upon a mere ground of selfishness, I would seek to benefit the other party and so tie him to myself; so that even if you were to suspect me of selfishness, I hope you will still suspect me of intelligence, and of knowing the only safe way for the establishment of the things which we covet, as well as the establishment of the things which we desire and which we would feel honored if we could earn and win.

"I have said these things because they will perhaps enable you to understand how far from formal my welcome to this body is. It is a welcome from the heart, it is a welcome from the head, it is a welcome inspired by what I hope are the highest ambitions for those who live in these two great continents, who seek to set an example to the world in freedom of institutions, freedom of trade, and intelligence of mutual service."

Lorette Is Captured By the French After Months of Fighting

Germans Had Ordered That Heights Be Defended Until Last Man Was Killed

(By Associated Press.)
PARIS, May 24.—"The capture by French troops of the German works at Blanche Voie (the 'white way') the evening of May 21 marked the victorious conclusion of our offensive on the 'Massif de Lorette,'" says the French semi-official eyewitness.

"The German general staff attached very great importance to the possession of these heights. To conquer, defend and retake them the German soldiers received a formal order so expressed as to make it operative until the last man was killed.

"The battle of Lorette was a great battle and ended in complete victory. Fighting has been going on in that vicinity uninterruptedly since last October.

"Thousands of dead testified to the desperate nature of the contest. Facing the French was a formidable organization; lines of trenches reinforced by sacks of earth and cement and further protected by a couple and triple system of barbed wire entanglements and other defenses, the whole protected by quick firing guns. At various points heavy artillery, carefully concealed, had been placed.

"The division charged with the attack on Lorette numbered more than twenty-six thousand bayonets of infantry and three battalions of chasseurs."

Nine of Lusitania's Dead Are Brought Over by Steamer New York

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, May 24.—Nine of the Lusitania's dead were landed here today from the American line steamer New York. Among them was the body of Charles Frohman.

Dr. Carl E. Foss, of Harlem, Mont., a survivor, who came on the New York gave some graphic details of the destruction of the Lusitania. He said after the explosion of the torpedo he saw a lifeboat break from the davits and fall into the water almost under the big ship's propeller blades.

"The blades ripped through the little boat and battered it to bits," he said. "One of the men was cut to pieces before my eyes; the water was red where the boat went down."

CZAR'S WARSHIP AND TURK GUNBOAT ARE SUNK: ALLIES SUFFER

Russian Man of War, With 1,400 Men, Sunk in Black Sea, Says Report From Bucharest, Rumania

TURKS CLAIM ALLIES LOSE 2,000 SOLDIERS

Turks Say 2,000 Dead Left by Allies After Defeat at Seddul Bahr--Austrians on Defensive in Galicia

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, May 24.—An unofficial report from Berlin says the Russian battleship Panteleimon has been sunk in the Black sea, with the loss of 1,400 men. The Turkish war office announces that an attack by the allies on the southern end of Gallipoli failed and that the attackers left 2,000 dead on the field.

The Paris and Berlin official communications today say engagements occurred Sunday at several points in Belgium and northern France, as well as between the Meuse and the Moselle rivers. Apparently no changes of consequence resulted.

Petrograd announces that the Austro-German forces, after sweeping across the western half of Galicia, have been checked. They now are said to be on the defensive, their efforts to compel a general Russian retreat from the San having failed.

Constantinople advices say the French and British have increased their land forces at the Dardanelles to 90,000 men. Originally 60,000 disembarked. The Turkish government announces the loss of an old gun boat, sunk by a submarine.

The situation in France and Belgium is unchanged. Reports from London, Amsterdam and Paris, which lack official confirmation, say the Germans intend to fall back on their second line, thus shortening their front and releasing troops for service against Italy.

Allies Lose 2,000 Men, Says Turkish Statement

(By Associated Press.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, Turkey, May 24 (Via Amsterdam and London.)—Official announcement was made here today that an attack by the French and British yesterday on the Turkish positions near Seddul Bahr, on the southern end of Gallipoli peninsula, had been repulsed. It is stated that the allies left 2,000 dead on the field.

The statement follows:

"The enemy on Sunday attacked near Seddul Bahr, under the protection of his batteries and fleet; but notwithstanding the fact that he had reinforcements we repulsed the attack. The enemy left 2,000 dead on the field, and we captured a machine gun.

"During the fight our fire caused a hostile aeroplane to fall into the sea."

Big Russian Warship Is Sunk in Black Sea

(By Associated Press.)
BERLIN, May 24.—(By Wireless to Sayville.)—The overseas News Agency today gave out the following:

"According to a Bucharest dispatch the Russian armored man-of-war Timeleimon has been sunk, with 1,400 men, in the Black sea."

The foregoing evidently refers to the Russian battleship Pantelaimon. This is not given in naval reference books as having a complement of about 740 men, but in the war number might be increased considerably.

The Pantelelmon, built in 1897, was 387 feet long and displaced 12,582 tons. She carried four 12-inch guns, sixteen 6-inch, four 3-ingh, six 3-pounders and five torpedo tubes.

Germans, Reinforced, Attack French and Are Repulsed

PARIS, May 24.—This afternoon's official statement says:

"At several points between Steenstraete and Ypres the enemy attacked yesterday after making preliminary use of asphyxiating gases. These attacks were repulsed.

"North of Arras fighting continued all night. We took 120 prisoners north of Neuville St. Vaast. Several German counter attacks were checked. Artillery engagements continue with intensity.

"Further reports describe striking of the left of the check administered to the Germans in this region May 22 and 23. In spite of numerous reinforcements the enemy failed in every one of his efforts and suffered considerable losses.

"Nothing has been reported from the remainder of the front."

Allies Now Have Force of 90,000 Men at Dardanelles

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 23.—(By Wireless to Berlin and London, May 24.)—The number of British and French troops landed along the Dardanelles has been increased to 90,000 by additional debarkations.

Of the troops on shore, about 4,000 are said to be incapacitated by illness. The original landing force was estimated at 60,000.

Squadron of Destroyers and Torpedo Boats Strike Adriatic Coast of Italy Early Monday but Is Repulsed

AIRMEN RAID FIVE EAST COAST CITIES

Venice, Porto Corsini, Ancola, Barletta and Gesi Attacked by Aviators Who Are Repulsed

(By Associated Press.)
ROME, May 24.—Austrian warships have attacked the eastern coast of Italy. An official communication from the Italian war office says the Austrian fleet was forced to withdraw after a short cannonade. The statement follows:

"It was foreseen that on the declaration of war offensive actions would occur against our Adriatic coast, with the purpose of seeking moral effect rather than attaining a military purpose. But we were able to prepare for these and render the duration short.

"Units from the navy, especially destroyers and torpedo boats fired their guns upon our Adriatic coast on May 24, between 4 and 6 o'clock in the morning. At the same time aeroplanes attempted to attack the arsenal at Venice.

"The enemy's ships after a very short cannonade, were forced by our torpedo boats to withdraw. The enemy's aeroplanes were fired upon by our anti-aircraft artillery and attacked by our aeroplanes and by a dirigible flying over the Adriatic.

"The aeroplanes attacked Porto Corsini, which replied immediately and obliged the enemy to quickly retire. At Venice, where the attack was repeated especially against the railway line, the intention of interrupting communication, slight damage was inflicted which can be repaired easily.

"At Barletta an attack was made by a scout steamer and two seaplanes which were put to flight by one of our ships, which was escorted by torpedo boats. Finally at Gesi the enemy's aeroplanes attempted to throw bombs upon the hangar but without reaching the mark.

"All other news of operations last night has no foundation."

VENICE ATTACKED.

Austrian aeroplanes attacked the governmental arsenal at Venice, Porto Corsini, Ancola, Barletta and Gesi also were attacked.

It is apparent that the Austrian aviators have swept virtually the entire eastern coast of Italy. From Venice, at the head of the Adriatic, the protection made their way as far south as Barletta, a distance of 350 miles.

Porto Corsini is about sixty-eight miles south of Venice. Ancona is 153 miles northeast of Rome and about 140 miles south of Venice.

After being virtually in a state of war for several days with her former partners in the Triple Alliance, Italy, beginning today, ratifies this condition by a formal declaration of hostilities directed against Austria-Hungary. Germany is reported to have indicated her support of Austria-Hungary by a formal declaration of war against Italy.

General mobilization of the Italian army and navy is said to have been completed, and a state of war has been declared throughout the northern provinces of Italy.

On the Austrian side of the line, martial law has been declared in the Trentino; the age limit for military service has been raised to fifty years, and stringent measures have been taken to control the Italian population of the dual monarchy.

Demonstrations enthusiastically approving the war are reported from all parts of Italy. Rome has held several warmest support to the Austrian government in the operations against the new enemy.

DR. JOHN E. WHITE TO QUIT SECOND BAPTIST

Prominent Minister Announces Intention of Accepting Call to Anderson, S. C.

Following a service as pastor of nearly fifteen years, Dr. John E. White, pastor of the Second Baptist church, on Sunday after his morning sermon, tendered his resignation to the congregation. He will become pastor of the First Baptist church of Anderson, S. C.

This came as a shock and surprise to the congregation, which had had no intimation of it.

Following Dr. White's resignation, A. D. Adair, chairman of the board of deacons, was called to the chair, and a motion was passed that a committee be named, composed of the board of deacons, the finance committee, Woman's Missionary society and the Young People's union, to report back to the congregation on the resignation.

A meeting of the committee will be held at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the church, to which all members are welcome. The congregation also adopted a motion that it was the feeling of the membership that Dr. White should remain with the church.

The Second Baptist church is mother of nine Baptist churches in Atlanta, and its membership is composed of some of the leading citizens of Atlanta, including Ex-Governor Joseph M. Brown, Judge George Hillyer, Judge B. D. Evans, Judge W. D. Ellis, F. J. Paxon, Henry Durand, Roykin Turman, Dr. E. L. Connally, Dr. William E. Campbell, Walker Dunson, William Hurd Hillyer, F. J. Day, E. L. Harling, Walker W. Brooks, George S. Lowndes, Charles A. Smith, James T. Wright, John S. Spalding, Hon. M. L. Brittain and others.

Dr. White became pastor of the church on January 1, 1901, and is its fourth pastor. His resignation is effective on September 1. While the Second Baptist is understood to pay $5,000 a year salary, the Anderson church pays a smaller amount—said to be $4,500.

Under Dr. White's leadership the Second Baptist church has grown to a membership of 2,500 and more than $300,000 has been raised for various purposes. Its woman's department, of which Mrs. White is the leader, raised last year $10,500 for church and missionary work.

Dr. White is on many boards of his own denominational and of interdenominational organizations. He is trustee of the Southern semintary at Louisville, Ky., and the home mission board; trustee of Mercer university and Morehouse college; trustee of the Georgia Baptist hospital and Orphans' home director Atlanta chamber of commerce and associated charities; chairman of the Atlanta Baptist association committee and commission committee directing the Baptist schools in the mountains of the south; trustee of the Georgia state sanitarium at Milledgeville; president of American Inter-Church college for training social workers, at Nashville, Tenn.; first vice president of the Southern Sociological congress; life member of the International Sunday school association; member of the Ten club of Atlanta and other societies of religious and literary purpose. He is one of the publicity committee of five that has prepared the Men and Religion bulletins.

KEESEE IS HELD IN JAIL AS SLAYER OF JARRELL

City Employes Have Fatal Fight in Concrete Shed on Moreland Avenue

Following an inquest by a coroner's jury Sunday afternon at Poole's undertaking establishment, A. R. Keesee, thirty-nine years old, 11 McDonald street was held for the grand jury charged with murder.

Jarrell was shot and killed by Keesee early Sunday morning in a concrete shed on South Moreland avenue, near the Intercihuatchi creek sewer. Both men were employed by the city. Jarrell came to relieve Keesee at 6 o'clock Sunday morning. Keesee and he took a drink with Jarrell, who had a bottle of whisky; he said they talked for several minutes, when Jarrell "acted" queer, and struck at him with a monkey wrench. Then, said Keesee, he shot Jarrell in self-defense.

Homer Harrison, who lives in Ormewook park, near where the shooting occurred, said he saw Keesee coming down the road from the concrete shed so drunk he staggered and lurched as he walked.

County Officers R. F. Jordan, A. A. Stovall and W. A. Wells, who investigated the case after the city police officers had been called, said they found no wrench or other tool that could be used for a weapon in the house where the killing occurred. They said they found an empty bottle of a medicinal whisky on the ground near the shed, and they also found a full bottle of the same whisky on Keesee's person.

The county police's theory of the shooting is that Keesee shot and killed Jarrell when the latter woke him up in the shed, after Keesee had drunk so much of the medicinal whisky that he hardly knew what he was doing.

The county police are keeping the whisky bottles and the .38 caliber revolver used in the shooting as exhibits for the trial in the superior court if the grand jury indicts Keesee.

There were no witnesses to the killing. Keesee went to his home, and was there found by Call Officers Austin and Wood when they investigated the case.

Keesee is in jail, where he will be held without bond until the grand jury acts.

Jarrell is survived by a wife and two little children.

The funeral was held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the residence and the body will be carried Tuesday morning to Nancy Creek cemetery for interment.

THEATERS

Every theatergoer of Atlanta is eager for the premiere performances this afternoon and tonight of "War Brides," the drama that has come to the Forsyth theater direct from Broadway. "War Brides" has created an international sensation. It is a bitter arraignment of the marriage customs at the opening of war, and is largely responsible for the world-wide sentiment that is prevailing in behalf of the fatherless "war babies" now being born in battlefield villages. M'lle Vadie, the noted French terpsichorean artiste, and her lavish company of dancers, is the extra-added attraction of an alluring bill composed of James Thompson and company; Steffy Berko, renowned violin virtuoso; the three Du For Boys, European dancers, direct from London; Stanley and LaBrack, the first of the Charles Chaplin imitators, and the Robert Delmont Trio, an aggregation of spectacular gymnasts.

One of the essential and unusual motives in Margaret Turnbull's drama, "Stolen Goods," starring Blanche Sweet under the direction of Jesse L. Lasky, which will be presented at the Grand today and tomorrow, is kleptomania. Blanche Sweet impersonates the role of a young and oppressed working girl sent to a big department store on an errand for her aristocratic employer. A wealthy young woman, afflicted with the mania for theft, standing at the same counter, cannot resist the temptation to steal an amount of silken fineries within her grasp. A house detective, catching her in the act, proceeds to act, when the kleptomaniac stealthily slips the stolen fineries into the handbag of the working girl. The arrest and false prosecution that follow which lead to the intensely dramatic events that compose the story of "Stolen Goods," one of the most masterful of all Lasky productions.

"WAR BRIDES" PLAYLET CAUSED A SENSATION

Headline Act at Forsyth One That Has Drawn Much Editorial Comment

"War Brides," a vaudeville playlet that created a sensation when produced in New York with Alla Nazimova in the leading role, is the headline feature of the bill at the Forsyth this week, with a strong company.

The sketch deals with the relation of women to war, and is based upon the custom of governments engaged in war encouraging soldiers to marry before they leave for the front.

The tremendous war stirs the nations of Europe were rushing to war the news dispatches carried stories of these marriages-in-haste, aided by the government and solemnized by wholesale.

"These operations were not confined to the belligerent country and their purpose struck the people of neutral countries as more obvious than decorous," says the Boston Globe in an editorial discussing the vaudeville sketch in question. "They struck a talented and thoughtful Salem woman, Mrs. Marion Craig Wentworth, as not only inconsistent but outrageous, and she wrote a powerful little play entitled, 'War Brides.'"

A young woman is persuaded, by an appeal to her patriotism, to marry a young man who is comparatively a stranger. He goes to the trenches. She is about to become a mother, contemplates her marriage, revolts against it, and calls it by a name which so displeases the government that she is arrested for treason. The news comes that her husband has been killed. Facing the officer who comes to arrest her, the girl challenges him with woman's right to take part in the councils of the nation. He is amused at the idea. Then she hands him a message to take to the emperor, and steps into an adjoining room.

As he reads the message aloud, "I refuse to bear my child until you promise me there shall be no more war," a shot is heard in the adjoining room.

It is a brief story but a terrible, to the point, and is such an arraignment of war as none but a woman with feelings deeply stirred could have written.

W. M. HOWARD ENGAGED TO PLEAD FRANK'S CASE

Former Congressman Will Present Petition to Pardon Board Next Monday

W. M. Howard, formerly of Lexington and now of Augusta, an ex-congressman and one of the best known lawyers in the state, who has been engaged to present to the state prison commission and the governor Leo M. Frank's petition for a commutation of sentence from death to life imprisonment, arrived in Atlanta Sunday and will be here through the hearing, which starts before the prison commission next Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Howard has made a thorough study of the whole case, going back to the scene of the crime at the pencil factory and coming through Frank's trial and his subsequent appeals to the courts.

To a reporter of The Journal Mr. Howard said Monday morning:

"The people of Georgia are rapidly coming to the conclusion that Leo Frank is innocent of the murder of Mary Phagan, or at least that the doubt of his guilt is so grave that his sentence should be commuted to life imprisonment."

Mr. Howard for twelve years represented the Eighth district in congress, his home then being at Lexington. Last year, upon his retirement from congress, he moved to Augusta and formed a law partnership with Enoch H. Callaway. Previous to his election to congress Mr. Howard for twelve years was solicitor general of the northern circuit.

During his career as solicitor general Mr. Howard was connected with a number of notable criminal trials and earned the reputation of being one of the ablest lawyers in Georgia. In the famous Mitchell case at Thomaston six or seven years ago he was associated with Solicitor William E. Thomas in the prosecution. With Judge Andrew J. Cobb, of Athens, and Judge Enoch H. Callaway, of Augusta, he represented Judge Emory Speer of the United States court in the southern district of Geogia, before the congressional investigating committee.

MINISTERS AT WORK.

A number of prominent Atlanta pastors have started a movement to petition the governor and the prison commission for a commutation of Frank's sentence, among them being Dr. C. B. Wilmer, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church; Dr. Charles W. Daniel, pastor of First Baptist church; Dr. John E. White, pastor of Second Baptist church; Dr. Jacob L. White, pastor of Tabernacle Baptist church; Dr. H. M. Du-Bose, pastor of First Methodist church; Dr. C. O. Jones, pastor of Trinity Methodist church; Dr. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor North Avenue Presbyterian church.

Dr. Wilmer recently visited Frank in his cell and spent several hours with him. Following that visit Dr. Wilmer called a number of ministers together informally and discussed with them the subject of petitioning for commutation of Frank's sentence. The sentiment of those present was unanimous in support of the proposal.

Dr. Wilmer was not in the city Monday morning, but Dr. Daniel, who is one of those favoring a petition by the ministers, said to a reporter of The Journal:

"A number of the ministers who have discussed the matter feel that justice would adequately be served and the consequences of a mistake avoided by commuting Frank's sentence to life imprisonment. This feeling is based on the grave doubt as to his guilt."

Dr. Jacob L. White, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle, in his sermon Sunday night, advocated a commutation of Frank's sentence, declaring the state of public feeling at the trial was not due to the fact that Frank is a Jew, but grew out of the nature of the crime itself. There would have been equally as strong a demand for conviction had the defendant been a Gentile, Dr. White said. But in speaking of the trial Dr. White said he should not be understood as criticising any of the lawyers on either side or any of the officers of the court. All that is now past and gone, he said, and the time has come for the people calmly and dispassionately to ask themselves the question whether Frank's guilt was proved beyond the shadow of a reasonable doubt.

In passing, Dr. White took a stand in opposition to capital punishment, and expressed the opinion that the judgment of the people eventually will abolish this form of punishment.

Another interesting development in the Frank case is an effort which has been made on the part of members of the Frank jury to bring the jury together for a discussion of the question of joining in a petition for commutation of sentence. Four members of the jury met some days ago at the home of F. E. Winburn, foreman of the jury, and discussed the question at some length. It is understood another meeting may be held. Those present at the first meeting were F. E. Winburn, F. V. L. Smith, J. T. Osborn and Werner Jeffries.

Clemency Is Urged in Thousands of Letters

More than 4,000 letters urging executive clemency for Leo M. Frank were received Monday morning by Governor Slaton and the state prison commission. These letters come from all sections of the United States and swell the total number received to date up to between 75,000 and 100,000.

Included in the lot received Monday morning were many from prominent citizens of Georgia and other states. Some of those who wrote were United States Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman, of Illinois; Governor James E. Ferguson, of Texas; Judge Glendy B. Arnold, judge of the circuit court of St. Louis; Judge Ben B. Lindsey, the famous judge of the juvenile court of Denver, Col., and many others.

Some of the well known Georgians who have wrote were Judge Andrew J. Cobb, of Athens, former justice of the Georgia supreme court; Judge W. H. Felton, of Macon, for many years judge of the Bibb circuit, and Hollins Randolph, of Atlanta, attorney for the federal reserve bank.

Judge Lindsey concluded his letter as follows: "I was born and raised in the south and I haven't any doubt of the sincerity and certainty of the people of Georgia as well as your excellency and the honorable board of pardons doing anything but justice in this matter. That is why I join the appeal in behalf of the commutation of the sentence of Frank, with perfect confidence that your action will be in accord with what seems to me to be the universal opinion throughout this country that the sentence of Frank should at least be commuted to life imprisonment."

DORSEY ASKS INCREASE OF BOND FOR INNESES

Application of Fulton County Solicitor Made to Justice Lamar of Supreme Court

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Application for larger bail than originally fixed was made today to Justice Lamar by Solicitor Dorsey, of Atlanta, in the cases of Mr. and Mrs. Victor E. Inness, held in Texas for extradition to Georgia to answer indictments for larceny after trust.

The Inneses were extradited from Oregon to Texas to answer charges of murder conspiracy. After their acquittal, it is claimed, they cannot be held in Texas for extradition to Georgia.

Justice Lamar several weeks ago allowed an appeal to the supreme court from an order of the Texas court of criminal appeals holding them subject to extradition to Georgia, and fixed the amount of the bond for Innes at $750 and of his wife at $500. Georgia officials contend the bonds are insufficient.

AGNES SCOTT GLEE CLUB GIVES CONCERT TONIGHT

Public Is Invited to Attend Entertainment in the College Chapel

One of the most attractive features of the Agnes Scott commencement exercises, which opened Sunday with the baccalaureate sermon, will be the Glee club concert Monday night in the college chapel at 8:30 o'clock, to which the general public is cordially invited.

A delightful program has been arranged under the direction of Mrs. Lewis H. Johnson, instructor in voice culture, and an artistic presentation of songs in quartet, sextet and ensemble singing is assured. The indications are that a large and enthusiastic audience will attend the recital.

Dr. James I. Vance, of Nashville, Tenn., preached an impressive sermon Sunday morning to the graduating class. The services were conducted by Dr. F. H. Gaines, president of the college, in the Decatur Presbyterian church before a large audience.

Beautiful and appropriate music was rendered by the choir under the direction of Lewis H. Johnson. Miss Isabelle Norwood, assisted by the choir, sang as an offertory Mendelssohn's "Hear My Payer," a beautiful sacred song, which was delightfully rendered.

DR. DU BOSE SEES GOOD COMING OUT OF WAR

A brotherhood of peace and a restoration of the world's lost reverence are predicted as the fruits of the European war by Dr. H. M. DuBose, pastor of the First Methodist church, in a sermon delivered Sunday night.

He also foresaw a restoration of the ancient art of Greece, where philosophy and art died a thousand years ago. But more important than anything else he considered the restoration of reverence for the teachings of Christ.

MR. HENDRIX PREACHES ON THE PRODIGAL SON

The parable of the prodigal son was taken as a text for his Sunday sermon by Rev. W. H. Hendrix, of St. Mark's Methodist church.

Mr. Hendrix gave the parable the broader significance of applying to universal salvation for wrongdoers.

His application of it was to the offender against divine law, who saw the evil of his way and returned for forgiveness, determined to lead a cleaner and a better life.

FLORIDA MAN'S DRINK MAKES HIM VERY SICK

After arriving in Atlanta from Fernandina, Fla., and registering at the New Terminal hotel on Madison avenue, W. C. Hamilton, who came to Atlanta to visit his daughter, drank a mixture of whisky and something else which made him very sick. Hamilton said business worries made him despondent, and a Grady physician who came with the Grady ambulance said there probably was laudanum in the whisky, but not enough to do more than nauseate Hamilton. Hamilton didn't go to the hospital, but later left the hotel with his daughter.

It is up to Atlanta to go to war to regain her lost baseball standing.

Thomasville's New Enterprise

One of the greatest omens of Georgia's development is the increasing number of boards of trade or similar institutions in the various towns and counties of the state. The latest enterprise of the kind has been inaugurated at Thomasville where a "Commercial Association," having a charter membership of two hundred and a guaranteed annual revenue of six thousand dollars for a period of three years, has applied itself to the upbuilding of the community.

The first step of the Thomasville organization will be an industrial survey of the surrounding country for the purpose of ascertaining just what lines of improvement are most needful and most promising. The wisdom of that policy cannot be too highly commended. Definite undertakings are the ones that count, and forward movements must be guided by exact knowledge if they are to achieve substantial results.

Every community is aware in a general way of its resources, its needs and its opportunities. But few communities have anything like a complete or accurate idea on those matters. On that account, many fine intentions fail and much money is wasted. The upbuilding of a community, like the construction of a highway, should be based on a well considered plan. That method assures full and enduring returns.

A board of trade, an industrial club or a chamber of commerce furnishes the machinery for intelligent and co-operative effort. Every town in Georgia, certainly every county seat, ought to have such an institution.

Considering that Germany was fifty years getting ready for war, Italy's delay is excusable.

Our National Wealth

According to the latest estimate of the Census Bureau, the national wealth of the United States is $187,739,000,000, or $1,965 per capita. These figures are based upon the property valuations and the number of inhabitants in 1912. They become the more impressive when compared with the records of preceding years. Thus in 1904, the country's total wealth was $107,104,000,000; in 1900, it was $88,517,000,000; in 1890, $65,037,000,000; and in 1880, $43,642,000,000. The records prior to 1880 do not include the valuations of what is known as "exempt realty," that is to say public works and buildings and other structures, together with their sites, which are owned by the local, State and Federal governments; exempt realty also comprises the property of educational, religious and charitable institutions which are not subject to taxation. Omitting this class of property from its later estimates, the Census Bureau presents the following table to show the increase of national and per capita wealth from the year 1850 to 1912:

Year:	Total (exclusive of exempt real property)	Per capita.
1850	$ 7,136,000,000	$ 308
1860	16,160,000,000	514
1870	24,055,000,000	624
1880	41,642,000,000	830
1890	61,204,000,000	975
1900	82,205,000,000	1,083
1904	100,273,000,000	1,234
1912	175,426,000,000	1,838

It will be observed that within the sixty-two years the total wealth of the United States has increased from $7,136,000,000 to $175,426,000,000, exclusive of exempt real estate, and the per capita wealth from $308 to $1,826. That is equivalent to a gain of two thousand, three hundred and forty-eight per cent for the total and four hundred and ninety-six per cent for the per capita amounts.

Among the items composing the aggregate for 1912, the following are noteworthy:

Taxed real property and improvements	$98,363,000,000
Exempt real property and improvements	12,314,000,000
Railroads and their equipment	16,145,000,000
Manufactured products (other than clothing and personal adornments, furniture, vehicles, and kindred property)	14,684,000,000
Furniture, vehicles, and kindred property	8,462,000,000
Live stock	6,238,000,000
Manufacturing machinery, tools, and implements	6,051,000,000
Agricultural products	5,240,000,000
Street railways	4,397,000,000
Clothing and personal adornments	4,295,000,000
Gold and silver coin and bullion	2,617,000,000
Privately owned central electric light and power stations	2,099,000,000
Shipping and canals	1,491,000,000
Farm implements and machinery	1,368,000,000
Telephone systems	1,081,000,000

Few recent estimates of the wealth of other nations are available. That of Great Britain for the year 1903 was $108,280,000,000, and of this amount $79,997,000,000 was accounted for in the United Kingdom. The national wealth of Germany was estimated in 1908 to be $77,864,000,000.

Reports printed every day indicate that Georgia has become one of the wheat states.

Germany hates the Italians and the English, from which it may be gathered that the Italians and the English are most to be feared.

The Pan American Conference

The Pan-American Financial Conference which opens today at Washington promises to be one of the most fruitful events in the history of the western world. Representatives of the Latin republics will take counsel with officials and leading business men of the United States as to means of developing closer trade relationships between North and South America and of promoting their common commercial interests. Present conditions are especially favorable for such a movement, and the thoughtful, generous spirit in which it has been undertaken assures its success.

The Latin-American governments have responded cordially to the call of the conference. One of them has sent, as chairman of its delegation, its Vice-President; others have sent their ministers of finance, and practically every delegation includes past or present officers of cabinet rank. Accompanying these officials will be prominent bankers and merchants who know precisely the needs of their respective countries and who can give practical advice concerning the service which the two Americas can render each other.

One of the delegates indicated the good that will come from the conference by saying: "South American merchants look on the United States as the logical source for obtaining many products," "and it would seem to be only a question of arranging the proper banking facilities and transortation lines to bring our people to your markets. We would prefer doing business with the United States, than with Europe, if the same facilities for doing business can be provided." That American enterprise can provide these facilities, there is no doubt. It is only a question of earnest, intelligent and organized effort, and from this conference that effort will materialize.

Italy having decided at last to enter the war, the map of Europe will give the map makers another job.

Judge Gary on Unemployment

The problem of unemployment, to which business and civic thought is now addressing itself with especial earnestness, is discussed in the current number of Harper's Magazine by Judge Elbert H. Gary. As a leader in the nation's practical affairs and the head of great industrial interests, Judge Gary's views on this subject are uncommonly interesting. He says in part:

"General unemployment is deplorable, not only because of the great suffering it produces —and this phase cannot be too often or too strongly emphasized—but also because enforced idleness impairs the productive capacity of a nation and depletes the general wealth. It is obvious to me, as I believe it must be to every practical thinker, that it is far better to carry men and women on the pay roll than on the relief roll. It is to the highest advantage of society that its working forces shall be utilized as completely as possible. No inefficiency could be greater than to leave honest and competent labor subject to the humiliation of charitable relief. Moreover, such members of the community as are not self-supporting—whether through their own fault or otherwise—must be supported by the public, and such support of the non-productive individual is pure waste."

Judge gary concludes that the problem of unemployment "is essentially one of business and business management and must be met by business statesmanship through the normal channels of business and economic organization." The logic of this view is obvious. We have been treating unemployment as a problem of charity, when we ought to have been treating it as a problem of business. We have been concerned with relieving individual and occasional emergencies, when we ought to have been grappling broad and ever present conditions. We have not solved the problem because we have not related its deeper causes to its deeper effcts.

It is true that the ultimate solution depends on what Judge Gary calls "business statesmanship" operating through "the normal channels of business and economic organization." Meanwhile, however, important service can be rendered through the proper channels of the city and State and federal governments. This task was undertaken some months ago by the national Department of Labor with the co-operation of the Postoffice Department and the Department of Agriculture. As a rsult, employment has been obtained for thousands of men, and farming and industrial interests have been distinctly benefied.

A number of municipalities have established a similar service and by so doing have helped the community no less than the individuals in need. A municipal employment bureau for Atlanta has been urged. The suggestion is thoroughly feasible and thoroughly just. It ought to be adopted.

And now comes tidings that Villa is winning again, and only a short time ago Carranza was asking us for recognition.

Editorial Echoes

War makes few men in this generation. Does it produce greater ones for the next? The former statement is attested by hundreds of thousands of new graves. Books have been written in an attempt to prove that battles are the greatest stimulant known to man and that they create a race of rare men and women. The Victorian era in England did see a remarkable assemblage of genius. Was it due to the Napoleonic wars? There were Huxley and Darwin and Spencer and Macaulay and Lister and Kelvin and Bulwer and Thackeray and Dickens and Tennyson and Gladstone all crowding upon the world from the days of the Little Corporal. But here in America our greatest group of literary men were not born in times of great battles. Emerson, Hawthorne, Whittier, Longfellow, Bryant, Lowell, Holmes, Bancroft, Prescott, Motley, Parkman, Taylor were not children of immense wars.—Public Ledger.

Why Children Have Night Terrors.

BY H. ADDINGTON BRUCE.

(Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Psychology and Parenthood," etc.)

A common disorder of childhood, and one which until recently was a great puzzle to the medical profession," is the malady technically called "pavor nocturnus," but better known as "night terrors." Children afflicted with night terrors behave in a most extraordinary way.

The attacks usually come on after the child has been asleep for some time. He starts up, shrieking for his mother, and staring wildly around, with wide-open eyes.

Sometimes he leaps out of bed and hides in a corner, trembling with fear and excitement. For a few moments he seems to know no one.

It used to be generally thought that this singular conduct indicated an inborn and organic over-excitability of the nervous system, and should be treated by drugs and dieting. Now it is known, thanks to the researches of some psychologically trained physicians, that night terrors are chiefly the result of faulty training, and are to be cured by the methods, not of physical, but of mental hygiene.

It has been found that children troubled by night terrors are always children of an especially emotional temperament, who have been exposed to sights and sounds that have filled their minds with distressing ideas. The mechanism of the malady is thus described by a specialist of my acquaintance, Dr. T. A. Williams, of Washington:

"At night, when a child is alone, his little consciousness cannot find the support of his elders, who are usually with him during the day. Before the kaleidoscope of his dreams pass the various images and disconcerting emotions of his waking life. So that if any of these images has become linked with fear, it is certain to bring with it terror, as it surges into dreams in the night, and the child jumps up, awakened, in panic, finding no one near upon whom to lean."

The trouble is that most parents do not realize the importance, on the one hand, of guarding their children against unnecessary exposure to fear-inspiring objects, and on the other hand of carefully cultivating in them the virtues of courage, confidence and self-reliance. These act as sure preventives against development of normal fears.

Some parents even make the great mistake of appealing to the instinct of fear as an aid in their children's training, frightening them into good behavior by tales of ghosts, bogies, cruel policemen, etc.

That children thus handled tend to develop night terrors is scarcely surprising. Still worse, even after they have "outgrown" their night terrors, the fears engendered in them may have a disastrous effect on their health.

No. 220—Blue Glass Virginia.

Generally speaking, anyone who wants to know about the so-called "old south" must get his information from books of history and popular novels, but there are some places in Virginia where the order of things has not changed enough to make any difference for at least fifty or sixty years.

An example is the blue glass belt in Fauquier county, where the Blue Ridge mountains break into low, rolling hills, covered with beautiful natural lawns of blue grass, and dotted with fine groves. In this region the horse is absolutely supreme. Since Colonial days some of the best mounts in America have been bred and raised in these rolling pastures, and they are still devoted exclusively to that purpose. There are a few towns in the county, such as Warrenton and Fauquier and Marshall and Calverton, all bearing names of ancient southern families, but they are very small places and blossom into prominence only once a year when they hold horse shows. Every little village has the horse show every summer, and the horse-loving population, which is practically the whole population, follows them from town to town.

The people of the blue grass region may be divided, without any pretense at drawing social lines, into two very distinct classes: One of these is the farmers, who raise the colts; and the other is the gentlemen horsemen, who train them. The sons of the first families of Fauquier county almost invariably follow one profession—that of horsemen.

All of the farmers in Fauquier county breed horses, and when one of them produces a colt that shows a tendency to try to jump out of his paddock, he knows that luck has come his way. For, while a thoroughbred riding horse is worth good money, a thoroughbred jumper is worth a fortune, provided he is properly trained and you know where to sell him.

The training and the selling are the functions of the professional horseman. He buys up a promising colt, for, perhaps, $500, when it is a year old. If the colt proves to be nothing more than a good riding horse, he is hardly a paying investment, but if he shows a talent as a jumper, he is literally worth his weight in silver, at least. When about three years old the colts are tried out in the little local horse shows. If they make a good showing they go to Washington, or even New York, where a Virginia gentleman with charming manners and an eye to business can easily bring them to the attention of people who can spend any amount of money to get something they really want.

A typical Virginia horse trade was that made by a young Fauquier country trainer a short time ago. He bought three promising colts for a thousand dollars when they were a little over a year old. For the next three years all of his time, energy and thought were centered upon the education of these colts. Every one of them was a born jumper, and as this young Virginian watched their growing achievements at the hurdle bar, he knew that fortune was within his grasp. As the colts neared maturity he began going to Chicago, where he became an attractive figure in social circles. When the colts were four years old he sold two of them for $10,000 to a young woman of Chicago, whose father could afford to buy her a $5,000 jumper every week if she wanted it. And then, just by way of clinching the bargain, the young Virginian married the heiress, and now he is puting in some rather extensive improvements on the old place in Vauquier county.

Our Olive Crop

Few agricultural products in the United States have so much increased in value within the last ten years as the olive crop. Last year this crop amounted to over $2,500,000. It comes chiefly from California, although Arizona has now begun to raise olives commercially, and within a few years will doubtless supply them in large quantities.

California olives are of two kinds, known as Mazanilla and Ascolano, and both are used for oil and pickling. About 6 per cent of the olives raised in this country are manufactured into oil, of which the supply is never sufficient for the demand.

The best grade of olive oil is manufactured from fruit which is firm, but yet ripe enough to permit the pit being pressed out easily. The olives are dried after being picked until they are reduced to about one-half their natural size and weight, before they are crushed in a stone mill to extract the oil. Olive oil is filtered through linen bags of several grades. The process of making is tedious, requiring nearly 90 days to complete.

Pickled olives are prepared when the fruit is in four stages of maturity. The first is green, the second has a reddish tinge, the third is black ripe and the fourth is dead ripe. The last are regarded as best and command highest prices, but require greater care and are prepared in small quantities. The United States consumes annually over $12,000,000 worth of olive products, less than one-fifth of which were produced here.

OUR PREPAREDNESS FOR WAR

III.—COAST DEFENSES.

By Frederic J. Haskin

THE COAST defenses of the United States are the most extensive and complete in the world. This fact has been conceded by foreign military experts, who have pronounced some of these fortifications practically impregnable.

A degree of popular misunderstanding, however, undoubtedly exists as to the proper function of our coast defenses. They are not coast defenses, in the proper sense of the word, but harbor defenses. They are designed to protect our commerce and our great cities from attack by sea, and to insure bases of operation for our navy. Thus, a coast defense may be located primarily to protect a naval base, as is Fortress Monroe; or to secure some inland water or sheltered roadstead from the enemy, as at Cape Henry; or to protect a commercial center, as at Portland; or to cover strategetic lines of railways, as at Narragansett.

To prevent an enemy from effecting a landing at any point along our long coast line, we are dependent upon the mobile army and the fleet. To protect our coast line by means of fortifications would be impossible. The coast defenses merely secure the strategic points against capture or destruction from the sea.

It is interesting at this time to note that an emergency was necessary to bring home to the American people the need for adequate coast defenses. At the time that the Spanish American war broke out, our coast defenses were actually armed, for the most part, with muzzle-loading cannon which would have been wholly ineffectual against the armor of modern battleships. The fortifications themselves were imposing structures of cut stone, which would have been easily demolished by the guns of modern destroyers. As long ago as 1885 the Endicott commission had drawn up plans for our present scheme of coast defense, but not until the conflict with Spain and the anxiety which the possibility of a Spanish invasion caused in Philadelphia, Boston and other cities, were sufficient funds appropriated to carry out these plans.

A modern coast defense fortification consists in a very heavy embankment of sand lined with concrete. Back of this are the pits in which the guns are mounted and the rooms from which their fire is directed. The armament of such a fortification consists in a battery of primary guns of from eight to twelve inches in calibre, including twelve-inch mortars and intermediate battery of six-inch and five-inch and 4 7-10-inch guns, and a secondary battery of four and three-inch guns. In addition to these batteries the harbor or roadstead to be defended is elaborately mined. The mines are placed from fifty to a hundred yards apart. Some of them are contact mines which will explode automatically if struck by a vessel, while others are fired by electrical connections from the fortifications.

The gunnery of our coast defenses represents the highest development of the science of defenses. The guns of these fortifications are stationary and their surroundings are known to the gunners. This gives them an incalculable advantage over the vessels against which they are pitted. And their marksmanship may be said, without exaggeration, to be almost perfect. Up to 5,000 yards a hundred per cent of hits is not an uncommon score.

Directing the fire of these great guns is a matter of mathematics. A base line 2,000 yards long is laid out upon the shore. At each end of this is a telescope which shows the angle between this base line and a line drawn from the base line to the enemy's ship. These angles are telephoned to the plotting room in the fortification. In this plotting room an officer with the telephone receiver strapped to his head is bent over an exact map of the harbor. The information sent him by the observers enables him to plot upon this map a triangle, of which the enemy's ship is the apex, while the fortification is at a known position on its base. In this way he knows the position of the ship he is shooting at to a dot. The rate at which it is moving may be accurately computed. Atmospheric conditions and the wind are taken into account. The gun is then directed and fired with almost a certainty that it will find its mark.

The "coast artillery game," invented by Major William Chamberlaine, is a method of working out in miniature the problems of coast defense, which is used by the officers at Fortress Monroe. It has given the coast artillery corps greater confidence than ever in the impregnability of these defenses. Some means of overcoming these fortifications from the sea have been worked out in theory, it is extremely doubtful whether any of them would be successful in practice.

This war game is played upon a board 25 by 40 feet in size. Miniature models of dreadnaughts, cruisers, battleships, destroyers and all the other units of a modern fleet are the pawns. At one end of the board one of our coast defenses, with all of its equipment and its surrounding land features, is represented in detail. Back of this sit the officers who are conducting the defense. At the other end of the board are those who direct the attack. The game is carried on in intense silence. When a night attack is in order the room is darkened and tiny searchlights throw their beams upon the approaching vessels, giving the whole scene an effect of startling reality.

Advantages of coast defense fortifications over vessels in open daylight is obvious. The gunners on board the vessels have to shoot from the moving deck and often over a rough sea. However good their marksmanship, the effectiveness of their fire depends largely upon chance. The coast defense guns, on the other hand, can almost unquestionably destroy anything that comes within their range and remains there for a reasonable length of time. Furthermore, each battleship opens a large vulnerable target, while the coast defense fortification might be battered for months and suffer comparatively little.

For these reasons, it is almost certain that an enemy would make his attack at night or in a fog. In this case, immense searchlights, sixty inches in diameter, throwing their beams to a distance of nearly five miles, would search out the enemy vessels and the fire from the coast defenses would be as deadly as ever.

But what if the enemy succeeded in destroying these searchlights? This must be admitted to be one possibility of successful attack. But, in order for his battleships to destroy our searchlights, the enemy must hit from his moving ships a target five feet in diameter at about that many miles. There is an extremely small chance that he would succeed in destroying all of these searchlights.

His only other method of proceeding against them would be to send his destroyers and other small craft close in to fire at the lights. These vessels, by reason of their shallow draft, might escape the mines. But the fortifications could send their own destroyers, patrol boats and torpedo boats against them.

Fog would give the enemy, perhaps, the greatest advantage of all. Searchlights are effective for only a short distance in a fog. The enemy might effect an entrance to the harbor in these conditions, but his battleships would be kept out by the mines. Two methods of proceeding against mines have been considered by military experts. One of these consists in having aeroplanes fly over the harbor, locate the mines and drop upon them countermines which would explode. This method represents a possibility which has never been used successfully. The other method is to send into the harbor shallow draft vessels which would lift the cables connecting the mines with the fortifications, and cut them, so that the mines would be ineffectual. This was the method used by Admiral Dewey in Manila bay. Our coast defenses, however, with their contingent of patrol boats and destroyers would hardly permit of its successful operation.

Thus, the coast defenses are seen to be almost perfect, both in equipment and operation. In case of war they would insure bases of operation for the navy and protect our large cities from attack by sea. They are not, however, capable of defending themselves from attack by land. For complete defense against invasion both the mobile army and the navy must cooperate with the coast defenses. As the Japanese demonstrated in the Russo-Japanese war that an army division can be landed upon a shelving coast without a harbor in twenty-four hours. A few soldiers are landed and a wharf is quickly built.

Once landed, there would be nothing to prevent an army from taking the coast defenses by land unless they were adequately defended by our own troops. Major General Wotherspoon, chief of staff, has estimated that 500,000 men would be necessary for the defense of the Atlantic coast line alone. Thus it is seen that our regular army and militia would have to be largely supplemented by volunteer troops before invasion could be successfully repelled, if the navy had been defeated. For the purpose of co-operating with our navy in preventing the landing of an emey, however, our coast defenses are well-night perfect.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

WHEN you get right down to the bottom of the question, the only out and out honest business transaction is the one in which both parties are profited.

If I sell you a horse for a hundred dollars, the horse ought to be of more value than the money to you, and the money ought to be of more use than the horse to me.

This is the underlying law of all trade, from swapping jack-knives to selling a million dollars' worth of bonds.

The complications of the business world are so great that it is often hard to tell whether a given deal, or a given line of money making, is ethical or not. But it is an excellent idea to keep in mind the basic rule that the only genuinely honorable deal is where the interests of both buyer and seller are advanced.

It is plain enough that betting is immoral, for my gain is your loss. So in a lottery what I win represents the losings of others, even if the winning be concentrated in a large sum and the losses be distributed in sums so small as to bear hard upon one person.

When we get into other affairs, however, the issue becomes confused. The safest method, for one who cares for his self-respect, is to ask one's self, "Have I rendered any sort of service commensurate with the money or goods or favors I have received?"

The class of sons and daughters who accept the gifts or the inheritance of money from their parents, sanctioned by the laws of society, and who spend all they get in play, in idleness, and in selfish ends, rendering no value to society, is the most dangerous class in the community.

They are doubly dangerous because vicious tradition causes us to consider them superior to common people who have to earn the bread they eat. They look down upon "trades-people." They regard "the working classes" as distinctly inferior. They spend their energies in devising some one amusement to another; they cultivate polo, golf, yachting, and such other games as only the wealthy and the idle can pursue.

They are constantly aware that the mass of people envy them, are servile toward them and anxious for their favors. They are surrounded by an army of flatterers and sycophants.

Hence they become insolent, haughty, and as vain as they are useless.

It is these do-nothings who exasperate the social conditions. They debauch the morals of the populace. They set up alluring and false standards for the young. They embitter the working classes. They corrupt the institutions of learning. They debase the church. They vitiate the state.

Their dangerousness to-day can all be traced to the fact that THEY GET SOMETHING FOR WHICH THEY DO NOT RETURN AN EQUIVALENT.

They might be of great service instead of being a nuisance, if they would only set about doing some useful work.

Any idle person is a septic spot in the community. And the worst kind of an idle person is a rich idle person.

It is not the giving of charity that can heal the curse of idle wealth; that only establishes more firmly the evil, in rendering the people servile by doing for them what they ought to do for themselves.

The only salvation for idlers is to find some part of the world's work to do and to do it.

The man or woman who get something for nothing ought to be barred from the society of decent people.

Quips and Quiddities

A Scotchman who resided at the foot of a hill had a cow, but was rather short of grass for her. The honest man, not knowing what to do with the cow, tethered her on top of the hill, where she got little or nothing to eat but heather. A neighbor, on seeing this, remarked to the crofter:

"Och, yer cow has nasthing tae eat on the tap o' the hill."

"She has nae muckle to eat, but she has a gran' view," was the reply.

In a town in the west there is a church that has a bright young pastor, but the attendance is unfortunately small. Among the parishioners there is a beautiful young widow. One evening, just as the little widow was about to leave the edifice she was addressed by the deacon.

"Good evening, sister!" he cordially remarked, with the usual handshake. "How did you like the sermon this evening?"

"I think it was just too perfectly lovely for anything," was the enthusiastic reply of the widow.

"It was indeed!" heartily returned the deacon. "I only wish that larger congregations would come to hear him."

"So do I," declared the pretty little widow. "The congregation was so small tonight that every time the parson said 'dearly beloved' I positively blushed."

Searchlight

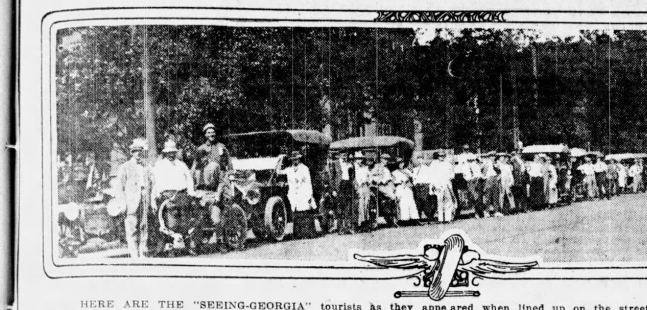

The thousands of acres of spruce forest, which are disappearing each year, to supply paper for the press, have led to the making of experiments to find a substitute, at the pulp mill and laboratory operated by the United States government at Wausau, Wis.

A number of substitutes come from the farm, and it is believed that corn stalk will prove to be one of the most important of these. According to a conservative estimate, 1,000,000 tons of corn stalks are produced annually. If the greater part of this supply was used in paper manufacture, it would involve no agricultural loss, because in the process of manufacture all the food value can be extracted from the stalks and returned to the farmer for stock food. This provides for the replenishing of the soil as well as if the stalks themselves were fed to the cattle or thrown directly upon the manure pile.

A pamphlet has lately been issued by the government, made up of different papers manufactured wholly or in part from crop wastes or by-products. One folio is made of shredded corn stalks, another from cotton seed hulls, another from broom straw and another from rice straw.

A daily newspaper of twenty pages, with an average circulation of a hundred thousand, uses the product of 2,500 acres of spruce wood each year. Some of the largest papers use the wood from ten thousand acres a year, so that the complete destruction of the spruce must result if some substitute is not put into use.

GEORGIA TOURISTS GIVEN CORDIAL RECEPTION IN TOWNS ALONG ROUTE

HERE ARE THE "SEEING-GEORGIA" tourists as they appeared when lined up on the streets of Columbus for the first photograph of their five-day tour of the state.

Great Ovation Given Party at Americus--Albany and Moultrie Hosts Monday Afternoon--Hog-Killing Planned

BY WARD GREENE.
(Journal Staff Correspondent.)

ALBANY, Ga., May 24.—With only one accident, the wrecking of the jitney bus, the seeing Georgia tourists reached Albany at 12 o'clock this afternoon after a two hours run from Americus over the finest roadbed any of the motorists have seen since leaving Atlanta.

The jitney car broke a wheel a few miles south of Americus in ploughing through a stretch of sandy road through a swamp. The driver and J. Coy Pearce, secretary of the Atlanta jitney bus club, were the only occupants. They were shaken up but suffered no serious injuries. The car will be repaired and hoped to catch the tourists later.

The morning run was by far the most pleasant of the trip. It was over a part of the new Dixie Highway and the speedometers of every machine covered between 35 and 45 miles an hour all the way. There was a ten-mile stretch without a curve, the longest air line in Georgia, and with one or two rough places the entire route was fine, hard clay. Sumter, Lee and Dougherty counties certainly deserve the palm for good roads in the opinion of those seeing Georgia.

Two stops were made between Americus and Albany. At Smithville the whole town turned out, both black and white, waiving American flags and cheering. The Brownwood trawoods men's brass band had traveled seven miles to play, and the tourists came in town to the strains of "Glory to Old Georgia," and "Dixie." This was changed later to "Pass Around the Bottle and We All Take a Drink," while "Bill" Stodard one-stepped with Mrs. Bill Jenkins in the dust of the highway and Charles J. Haden endeavored to waltz with Wade Turner, the civil war fire chief.

On the reception committee were U. Phillip, T. S. Burton, E. A. Clark, J. E. Frank, W. H. Loumfus and J. H. Hill. Mayor T. S. Harris was also present. The tourists lingered full fifteen minutes in Smithville while Secretary Hyman, of Americus, danced a jig and the band played the "Old Oaken Bucket."

Leesburg was the next stop before Albany. Here Mayor A. W. Gardner, T. C. Sharp, T. H. Clark, T. R. King, R. B. Forrester and S. J. Yoemans, members of city council, greeted the tourists. The tourists were also introduced to County Warden J. M. McBride, the man who built the wonderful roadway which they were then praising.

Before the county line of Dougherty county was crossed the welcoming cars from Albany met the pacemaker. In them were Mayor H. A. Tarver, C. D. Smith, of the board of county commissioners; President J. Ellis, of the chamber of commerce; John S. Mock, secretary of the chamber, and other prominent citizens. Headed by the five Albany cars, slow time was made up North Jefferson street into the heart of this beautiful city. Chief of Police Illis was on the outskirts of town to direct the way and hold up traffic, and at every corner other officers were stationed. Fast beautiful homes and parks on every side into the city streets lined with people on every hand. The tourists proceeded to the New Albany hotel, where a committee of ladies, headed by Mrs. W. C. Holt, president of the Woman's federation, took care of the ladies on the tour, over twenty in number. A few minutes later everybody adjourned to Chautauqua park and an old-fashioned Georgia barbecue served on the green lawns. Many compliments were heard from the tourists on the richness and fertility of the country through which this morning's jaunt went.

Grain seems to predominate instead of cotton. In Lee and Dougherty counties great shelves of oats piled high in the fields and many laborers at work with reapers and binders. In Dougherty county the gigantic pecan groves started and for many miles the country on both sides was a forest of green. The tourists left Albany at 2 o'clock in order to get into Moultrie by 4 o'clock, so that the 300 pigs to be killed there might meet their fate within the hours provided by the United States government.

Americus Gives Rousing Welcome to Tourists

AMERICUS, Ga., May 24.—With cheers, songs and speechmaking the "Seeing Georgia" tourists left here at 10 o'clock this morning over the route of the New Dixie Highway for Albany and Moultrie at noon. An hour before leaving everybody gathered in the lobby of the Windsor hotel and the Marietta delegation, headed by Mayor E. P. Tebbs, began to tear the roof off with "It's a Long Way to Marrietta" and C. J. Haden president of the Georgia chamber of commerce, mounted the clerk's desk and called on Judge T. E. Patterson, of Griffin, member of the state prison commission and one of the tourists. Judge Patterson praised Sumter county as the best good roads county in the world and the "Seeing Georgia" tour as the one great way in which one may know his state resources and her people. Commissioner of Agriculture J. D. Price spoke, commenting on the prosperous scenes through which the tourists have been passing, the broad fields of grain and the apparent decrease in cotton acreage.

It was Prof. Mathis, superintendent of the city schools of Americus, who then officially bade the tourists goodbye in the name health. "We have the best roads in the country, we are the pioneers of road building Georgia and we hope to make them better every day," he said.

R. J. Freeman, county commissioner of DeKalb county, and L. G. Council, of Americus, president of the Georgia Bankers' association and one of the most prominent citizens in the state, was tourists and declared they were always welcome in Americus.

J. Lee Barnes announced that San Pearam had made elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the tourists in Griffin next Thursday and with one more song and cheers the "Seeing Georgia" tour was off again.

Piloting the cars of Americus was the Overland machine which will be sent over the rest of the route by the Americus chamber of commerce. E. H. Heyman, secretary of the chamber of commerce, is in the car with Miss Jessica Physioc, sponsor for Americus.

STRAW HATS DONNED.

The tourists raided a millinery store before they left, grabbing about 100 big straw hats decorated with ribbons and feathers which will keep off the sunshine which has been beating down steadily every day since leaving Atlanta. Bill Stoddard, the pacemaker, also bears a purple parasol decorated with fine Sumter counter vegetables.

Pacemaker W. J. Stoddard, C. J. Haden, Commissioner of Agriculture J. D. Price and other notables on the seeing Georgia tour of the Georgia chamber of commerce, were lost for three hours yesterday afternoon in the backwoods between Columbus and Americus, reaching here in total darkness long after the other forty cars had sung down Cotton avenue at 4:30 o'clock with the streets lined on either side with over 1,000 Americus citizens.

The cars left Columbus at 3 o'clock after W. J. Dabney, mounted on a cannon in city hall park, had thanked the assembled citizens of Muscogee county for the hearty reception accorded the visitors. He called on "Handsome Bill" Stoddard, as he named him, who seconded his words. Then the cars were off in a gaily decorated line.

About five miles from Columbus, through some mistake in directions, Pacemaker Stoddard shot his car off a side road. The car of President Haden followed, and so did three other cars right behind it. The other tourists kept on the right road.

Three hours later the pacemaker and those with him emerged into the right road again, after an experience they will long remember, fording streams, getting stuck in the quicksand of Notnam's creek and other adventures. Up a 200-yard stretch of sandy road the pacemaker got stuck and had to be hauled out.

TRAVEL FINE ROADS.

In the meantime the other tourists had swept southward over some of the finest roads they have yet encountered. Through Marion, Schley and Sumter counties the roadbed was firm though dusty. The populace had turned out to greet the passing cars. At Buena Vista Judge W. D. Crawford, W. C. Wooster, W. E. Drane, J. L. Wilson, W. L. Guy, R. E. Clements, C. M. Clements and other prominent citizens were waiting with refreshments and advice. They had made every preparation for the tourists, even stationing a pair of mules the only bad stretch of Marion county road to haul out anybody that got stuck Several tourists thanked their stars that the mules were there.

At Ellaville more people were out; but the real ovation came when Americus was reached. A reception committee was composed of the following: Carr S. Glover, E. H. Heyman, secretary of the chamber of commerce; Crawford Wheatley, W. A. Dodson, C. J. White, all of the chamber of commerce; Mayor L. G. Council, E. A. Nisbet, Colonel George R. Ellis, representing the city; County Commissioners Arthur Rylander, T. B. Hooks, Lee Johnson, John Daniels and W. E. Mitchell. The cars were checked at the county line by Gordon Statum and Dick Brinson.

Sunday night many of the tourists went out to the country club, which was open to all. Monday morning many of them were shown over the fine farms of Sumter county, which claims to be the third richest and prosperous in the United States.

Few mishaps have marred the success of the tour so far. Mrs. Boiling Jones, wife of Atlanta's postmaster, had thrown out of a car just before reaching Buena Vista; but she was not even bruised, landing in a soft sand bank.

CAR RAMS A MULE.

Coming into Americus in care of Tom Pitts collided with a wagon and a south Georgia mule. The mule wasn't hurt particularly, but Mrs. Dr. W. B. Hannby was thrown out and slightly hurt.

The cars have all stood the grind well. The performance of the Studebakers in getting up the long sandy stretch is considered quite remarkable. Pace-maker Stoddard is still setting a good clip. In spite of the misdirections which sent him so far out of his way Sunday after noon, he arrived in Americus on the heels of the tourists who went the right way, making the last 28 miles in 42 minutes.

The tourists spent a quiet Sunday morning in Columbus. After the hard first day's grind most of them were well content to take it easy on the porches of their hotels or meet the breeze in spins over the magnificent roads of Muscogee county. Many went to the country club and a few buoyant spirits boasted of the fact that they had walked the quarter of a mile to the state line and put a foot over in Alabama.

Roy Sims, city representative of the Republic Tire company's Atlanta agency, reached Columbus Saturday night with a party and will make the rest of the trip. With him were C. R. Paisley, assistant manager of Republic agency, Dr. W. E. Lambright, and T. A. Fox. They are in a Packard car, which Mr. Fox drove from Atlanta in the record time of four hours.

H. A. Jackson and J. E. Jackson, of Tallopoosa, fell in line at LaGrange. Other tourists not given in The Journal's list Saturday are Lemuel M. Park and party, Gordon W. Donaldson, Oscar G. Davis, Mrs. Davis and son, Oscar Davis.

So far all the cars in the tour are showing splendid endurance powers. "Bill" Stoddard, with W. J. Dabney, in the Maxwell that is setting the pace, has kept right on schedule time, save for Sunday afternoon's experience. Next in line is a Stevens-Duryea, with Charles J. Haden, Mrs. Haden, Jesse H. Morrow, of Pittsburg; Mrs. M. M. Armstrong, of Atlanta. Then come four Studebakers from the corporation's Atlanta branch. Two are "sixes," one is a seven-passenger "six" and one is a "four." The "four" is in position between the two "sixes" and has kept right on the heels of the larger car throughout the trip. The quartet is making a record for speed and a minimum of tire trouble. Driving these cars are H. B. Dwyer, F. J. Lawler, H. W. Atkinson and A. C. Webb.

MARIETTA DELEGATION.

There are two other Studebakers in the tour. E. Anthony's car and the machine of Reuben Kyle, from Roanoke, Ala., containing Mrs. Kyle and Miss Evelyn Kyle.

The Marietta delegation is traveling at a speedy gait in two Overlands, a Mitchell and a Cadillac. A big bunch from Lithonia is also making fast time in a Mitchell. The official referee's car, a big Locomobile, had a puncture in Grantville, but this mishap was easily repaired and since then the machine has been burning the wind.

The Atlanta Jitney Bus company's Ford has kept the cars ahead of it on the jump and took the rough, red roads that were encountered soon after leaving Atlanta as if they were smooth as macadam.

The confusion of cars at the getaway in Atlanta has been largely settled now and for the first time President C. J. Haden and Secretary A. M. Smith are able to tell with some degree of accuracy just how many machines are in the "Seeing Georgia" tour. There are 47 in all. This includes one or two that dropped out at LaGrange and Columbus and others which joined the tour at points on the route.

The hospitality of the folk in every county has been one of the most marked features of the tour, but the automobilists have made enemies for life of every washerwoman between Atlanta and Columbus. Monday may be wash day in the city, but it is evidently on Saturday that the mammies of Campbell, Troup, Harris and Muscogee counties "bile the clothes," for every little cabin that was passed Saturday had a clothes line all its own. On the lines were garments of all the rainbow hues, but after the tourists had gone by each and every article of clothing was the same brick-red. The clouds of dust kicked up from the highway by the speeding automobiles smothered the fields on every hand and many a Georgia washerwoman began Saturday afternoon what she had finished Saturday morning.

Comments are heard on every hand praising the good roads of Troup, Harris and Muscogee counties. Especially around Columbus are the roads in great shape. The roads are built out of a mixture of sand and gravel and are said to be the equal of any in the country. From Columbus to Americus they made a regular speedway over which the tourists who didn't get lost established the fastest record of the tour so far, going most of the distance at a thirty-mile an hour rate.

President Haden received a wire at Columbus from W. C. Vereen, of Moultrie, stating that 300 hogs will be killed there Monday as a sort of sacrifice of honor of the tourists. To reach there by 4 o'clock in the afternoon so as to comply with government regulations that hogs shall not be killed after 6 o'clock, the pace will have to be a hot one. The Moultrie packing houses, some of the finest in the country, received a special dispensation from Washington to kill the 300 porkers at one fell swoop.

At Moultrie the tourists will be joined by Dr. K. G. Mathewson, president of the Georgia School of Technology, and his little son, Kenneth, who will make the rest of the tour with them. Besides the hog killing there will be exercises which will assemble from all around the citizens of Colquitt county. Judge T. E. Patterson, chairman of the state board of prison commissioners, will be one of the speakers. Commissioner of Agriculture J. D. Price and Mr. Haden will also speak.

Marriage of Miss Dorothy Frew and Mr. Ralph Peters, Jr., at Hempstead.

Of interest in Atlanta will be the account of the wedding of Miss Helen Frew and Mr. Ralph Peters, Jr., which appeared in the New York Times of Sunday.

Mr. Peters is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Peters, of Garden City, L. I., and is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peters, of Atlanta, and is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Peters, Mrs. Nellie Peters Black, of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peters, of Philadelphia. He has frequently visited Atlanta and has many friends who will be interested in his marriage.

The wedding of Miss Helen Frew, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Frew, and Ralph Peters, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Peters, was celebrated yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Christ First Presbyterian church, Hempstead, L. I. The officiating clergymen were the Rev. Dr. Frank Melville Kerr, pastor of the church, and the Rev. Dr. Lewis W. Francis, of New York, who officiated at the marriage of the bride's parents.

The decorations at the church, which is the oldest of its denomination in America, were spring and field flowers.

The bride, who walked up the nave with her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a short length gown of white satin embroidered in seed pearls and crytal and trimmed with rare Irih lace. Her veil of tulle and lace caught at the coiffure in cap effect, wa an heirloom in the family. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of lilies of the valley and sweet peas.

The bridal attendants were Mrs. Frederick P. Clarke and Mrs. George W. Pierpont, of New York; Mrs. Warren Church, of Philadelphia, a classmate of the bride, who was married a fortnight ago, and the Misses Edith Blakeman, Sybil Melcher and Dorothy Peters, a sister of the bridegroom. They were gowned in short length frocks of shell pink taffeta and silver lace, with old blue girdles, topped with large pink chiffon hats. They carried bouquets of pink sweetpeas.

E. C. Gardiner, Jr., was best man for Mr. Peters, and the ushers included Samuel T. Peters, Nicholl Floyd, Samuel Fleming, Jr., George W. Pierpont, Frederick P. Clarke, and George H. Frew, Jr.

A large reception followed at the home of the bride's parents in West Fulton avenue, Hempstead. Mrs. Frew, who received with Mr. Frew, wore a dark green satin gown, embroidered in gold and black jet, with a black lace overdress, and a black hat.

The color scheme of the wedding was pink and white, which was carried out also in the decorations at the house. A pavilion was specially constructed for the dancing, with striped awnings. The orchestra played behind a screen of palms.

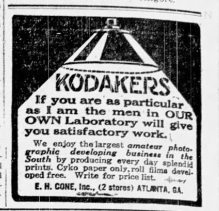

Later the young couple left on their honeymoon. On their return they will live in Garden City.

Mrs. Peters is a graduate of Vassar college and prominent in the doings of the younger set and charitable work. She is fond of outdoor sports, being a devotee of golf. Her father is president of the Corn Exchange bank, and Mr. Peters' father is president of the Long Island railroad. He was graduated from Princeton university, class of '08. Their engagement was announced last June.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

When the word went forth among the little people of the Green Forest that old Mrs. Possum was taking her family out for a walk every day everybody who could made an excuse to just happen around near Unc' Billy's hollow tree. Each one tried his best to appear as if he had just happened along that way. You see it isn't considered good manners to show too much interest in any one's family, not among the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows anyway.

So each one tried his best to appear very much surprised when he met old Mrs. Possum and her big family, and, of course, each one hastened to say the very nicest things he could think of about those Possum babies. Old Mrs. Possum paid no attention whatever to what was said. Indeed, she appeared to take no notice at all of her neighbors. She went right about her business as if no one was there. At least that is the way it seemed. But after a little Peter Rabbit noticed that whenever Granny or Reddy Fox or Old Man Coyote or Redtail the Hawk happened to be anywhere near she always seemed to have business up in the trees, while when he or Chatterer the Red Squirrel or Striped Chipmunk or Sammy Jay or Tommy Tit the Chickadee or Whitefoot the Wood Mouse were about she seldom or never climbed a tree, but was tremendously busy on the ground hunting for insects and digging out tender roots, and, as usual, seeming to pay no attention to any one. Then Peter made up his mind that old Mrs. Possum was a lot shrewder and more clever than she looked, and that while she seemed to be paying no attention to her neighbors, she was watching every single one, and she knew all about the interest her big family had aroused.

Peter was right. Old Mrs. Possum knew perfectly well why Reddy and Granny Fox and Old Man Coyote visited that part of the Green Forest so much, often two or three times a day, and why they were always so polite to her and inquired so earnestly after her health and the health of her family. She knew that they were quite as much interested as they professed to be. Yes, indeed, she knew all that. But she also knew that it wasn't because the babies were so cute and fuzzy that they were interested, as were Peter Rabbit and the others, but because tender, young Possums would make such delicious eating.

So while she seemed to be thinking of nothing but finding plenty for her growing babies to eat she had to her sharp little eyes open every second of every minute for those who were interested for the sake of their stomachs. And with this and trying to find enough to fill all those hungry mouths dependent on her she had no time to gossip or show off her babies as most mothers delight to do.

If she was proud of all the attention her family received, she never let it be known. In fact she was very short and sharp and had a way of making everybody feel uncomfortable. Unc' Billy would excuse her whenever he could.

"Yo' see," he would explain, "a lot of children are a powerful lot of care, an' mah ol' woman han't got time to be polite, Ah reckon. She don' mean anything by her sharp tongue. Ah reckon Ah ought to know fo' Ah done live with her fo' a long time.

Her tongue am sharp there is no doubt;
Her temper it am short.
But we-uns know she loves we-uns,
And count the rest as naught.

Dandruffy Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—(Advt.)

Hiett to Hurl Third Game Against Vols; Pitcher Dent Sold to Frisco

Crackers Sell Dent to Frisco

Sale of Hurler Leaves But Two of 1913 Pennant Winnig Combination With the Club

Manager Bill Smith, of the Crackers, announced this morning that a deal whereby Elliott Dent would be sent to the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast league had been completed. The big right-hander has been sold to the Seals outright. He will doubtless leave within the next day or so to report to his new club.

With the sale of Dent, the Crackers are now carrying but two of the players who played with the club last season. These are Elbel, Thompson and Bisland. Opening the season the club had five men held over, of whom three were pitchers. But Frank Browning was released a little more than a week ago, and the passing of Dent cuts the number to three.

Dent, Bisland and Thompson were members of the flag-winning outfit of 1913. The big right-hander came here after the season was under way and was an important factor in the great race through the stretch that landed the locals under the wire first by a single game. He pitched great ball in the closing weeks of that race.

His work last season was also good, in spite of the fact that he suffered thirteen defeats. He won sixteen and lost thirteen games, but references to the records shows that of the thirteen lost, no less than five were dropped by margins of one run. This season his work has been erratic. He has pitched three good games, holding the opposition well in hand, while in his other starts he has been hit freely.

Dent is far from through as a pitcher. He takes excellent care of himself, is a fine specimen of physical manhood, and can stand up under lots of work. With the Seals he should prove a valuable hurler, and it will not be surprising to see him wind up the current season well up around the top among the Coast league hurlers. He has a large number of friends here, who wish him every success with his new affiliation. Here's hoping he tops the league.

League to Hold Called Meeting

President F. E. Callaway of the Crackers, has received notice of a special meeting of the Southern league called by President R. H. Baugh, in Birmingham, tomorrow. It is understood that the purpose of this meeting is to discuss the situation which obtains in Mobile at present. The Gulls have been drawing very poorly thus far, and the club is reported to be in bad financial condition. For several days a campaign has been on in Guiltown to boost interest in the club and to sell season tickets to the game.

Just what the outlook is since this campaign has closed is not known. It is the purpose of the meeting to look into the situation closely and adopt some method of procedure looking toward keeping the league intact as it now stands. It is probable that other matters may come up for consideration at the Birmingham meeting, but the Mobile proposition is the chief concern.

Military Academies May Enter Shoot

NEW YORK, May 24.—Students from universities which give military instructions and from military schools and academies will be allowed this year for the first time to take part in the national shooting competitions to be held on the Florida range this year, according to announcement today by the national board for promotion of rifle practice.

The matches of the National Rifle association of America will be held on the Florida range October 8 to 14. The national competitions will follow beginning with the national individual match.

Colonel Richard M. Blatchford, U. S. A., commandant of the army school of musketry at Fort Sill, Okla., has been selected as executive officer for the contest.

The naval academy will be represented, and an effort is being made to induce West Point to send a team.

Decatur Wins Long Game From Norcross

NORCROSS, Ga., May 24.—In a hard-fought fifteen-inning game, the Decatur team won from Norcross here Saturday afternoon, by the score of 7 to 6. The home team tied a three-run lead in the third inning, and after Decatur had scored two more in the sixth, again tied the count in the seventh. From then on until the fifteenth inning neither team was able to score. The visitors put over two more runs in that inning.

The hitting of Chase and Slattery and the pitching of Garlington featured for the visitors. The work of the local infield was the most pleasing feature from a Norcross standpoint.

Andrews Blocks Deal for Kissinger

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 24.—President O. B. Andrews, of the Chattanooga Baseball club, last night refused to give his sanction to the purchase of Pitcher "Rube" Kissinger which was made by Manager McCormick in New Orleans yesterday. The club executive states that he will postpone final action until after a conference with McCormick, but that at present he does not consider the purchase advantageous for the Chattanooga team.

Lester German, who pitched for the Giants in the middle '90s, and who has since been a professional trapshot, was seriously injured by the discharge of a gun in the hands of a fellow during the progress of a shoot at Baltimore recently.

The Sportlight

BY GRANTLAND RICE

AS TOMMY HOOD WOULD SAY.

I remember—I remember—
Two thousand years ago,
When Caesar led his legions
Along the purling Po;
When Rome won every pennant
Amid a joyous din,
And Colonel Honus Wagner
Was a youngster, breaking in.

I remember—I remember—
Beyond Time's endless call
When Caesar said the Belgae
Were the bravest of them all;
When he divided Gaul three ways
And carried home the loot,
And scribes referred to Wagner
As "a promising recruit."

"Italy," remarked Colonel H. Wagner today, "looks every bit as promising to me as she did back when Caesar had the club. I recall very distinctly my first view of Caesar on the bench. He was even more rabid than George Stallings."

THE 40-YEAR ENTRIES.

Some time ago an irate citizen somewhere beyond 40 years of age was decidedly upset because he labeled those beyond 35 years of age as "old men in baseball." They are not in baseball.

"A man at 40," wrote this citizen, "is merely in his prime." Not in baseball. How many men are there who at 40 are still on deck as regulars in major league play? A gentleman with an amputated thumb could come near counting them on the fingers of his bum hand. John Henry Wagner is now 41, passing on toward 42, and he happens to be the sole entry over 40 in the National or American league. Eddie Plank, the Gettysburg Guide, who has just reached 40, is with the Feds. But there are no others. For Larry Lajoie won't be 40 until the 5th of September and Tommy Leach still has two years to run, despite his grizzled appearance and his war-scarred—not scared—frontispiece.

ONLY A FEW.

Only a few in the run of the game have passed 40 still wearing big league harness. Denton Tecumseh Young, the Paoli Pippin, broke all records by sticking until he was 44. All records with the possible exception of Cap Anson, who was around 44 when he retired in 1889, after starting 23 years before. And he could Cap out with an average of .303. Fred Clarke quit as a regular when he was 40, and Rhody Wallace, of the Browns, was around this mark when he ceased daily duty.

So when you observe the amazing antics of Colonel Wagner around short, you may appreciate, in line with the past history of the 40-year-olders, the true worth of this sedate, middle-aged citizen.

CLARKE'S TOUGH JOB.

Fred Clarke is another who has found that rebuilding a flag machine is no easy stunt. Clarke produced three pennant winners back in 1901, 1902 and 1903. From that point he was forced to wait six years before he put over another. He came through in 1909, but another six seasons have passed and the Kansas oil magnate is still struggling a bit out of gonfalon range. He seemed to be on his way back three years ago, but his club started to collapse in 1913, dropped to the rocks last year, and now his main battle is a first division finish. Clarke has an improved club over last season, but it is a club that still lacks consistent power and high grade pitching. But it is an approving club, and this is something.

SPEAKING OF HIGH-POWER GUNS.

Krupp made the sixteen inchers,
Doing their share of harm;
Creusot made the 75's—
But who made Archer's arm?

If Honus Wagner, physically, is a German sample, good marksmanship isn't needed by the Allies. All a gunner would have to do is to shoot in some general direction, knowing the target was unmissable.

HANG-OVERS.

"Stone walls do not a prison make," but there are times when they assist materially.

"The battle isn't to the strong," but the wise bettor points his kale in that direction.

Grover Cleveland Alexander has lost two games, which goes further to prove that in sport anything can happen—not only once, but twice.

This is the first time in twelve years that McGraw has come to the 20th of May with a club in last place. But as a silver lining is said to adorn practically every cloud that covers the gray sky, the Giant leader is taking cheer in the thought that within a few days he will have his crippled athletes under repair back in the game, and that several of his sharpshooters have begun to yield to lucid intervals in the way of improved pitching. The Giants should have no great trouble finishing in the first division, but they still have failed to show the consistency needed to finish out in front. Whether warm weather will thaw out his veterans and get them going is entirely in the realms of guess. There is hardly a chance to get a correct and reliable line on any ball club until after mid-June And then very often the line obtained is neither reliable nor correct. For there is no telling, these haphazard days, what the earnest athlete, young or old, has stored away in his system.

REVISED.

I'd like to be an umpire
And with the umpires stand;
A Krupp gun in my pocket,
A shotgun in each hand.

Roy Fisher says he intends to practice law up in old Vermont when his day as a winning pitcher is over, but at the present writing it will be a number of weeks before any jury listens to Mr. Fisher's impassioned eloquence. The Vermont instructor has come into his greatest year, and as he is a strong young man, a steady one, and a clean living one, with a bean attached to his frame, he should have at least half a dozen years left. It is a boost to the game to have the Ray Fisher type succeed, that being the type of a citizen Ray Fisher is.

Atlanta Miss Plays in Great Form Before Opening of Woman's Southern Golf Championship

BIRMINGHAM, May 24.—Miss Alexa Stirling, the brilliant young Atlanta golfer, is being picked by local enthusiasts as the best bet to defeat Mrs. Frank G. Jones, present title holder, in the Woman's Southern Golf association championship tournament which opens here today. Both Mrs. Jones and Miss Stirling played over the course of the Country club, where the tournament is being held, yesterday, and the Atlanta entry turned in a card of 81 for the 18 holes. She was one stroke better than Mrs. Jones, who had an 82.

Golfers from all parts of the south are here, and it is expected that the largest entry list that ever competed in the championship will tee off in the qualifying round. Fifty expert local players will enter, and fully as many more from other cities will take part. A large number of them played over the course yesterday, and the links are pronounced to be in excellent shape for the big event.

In addition to Miss Stirling there are several other players from Atlanta who are expected to figure prominently in the tournament. The list includes the following: Mrs. Thomas B. Paine, Mrs. A. V. Gude, Jr., Mrs. Frank Adair, Mrs. Robert P. Jones, Mrs. Ulric Atkinson, Mrs. Levi Scoville, Mrs. Nash Broyles, Mrs. John Somerville, Mrs. Inman Sanders, Mrs. Edwin Johnson, Mrs. William Tilt, Mrs. Lewis Beck, Miss May O'Brien, Miss Marion Goldsmith and Miss Mignon McCarty.

Railing The News

BY INNIS BROWN

If reports purporting to come from President Rosser a few days since are authentic, the local pres league is due for something of a scramble in the next few days. The trouble brewing, concerns the baseball season, which has about drawn to a close.

According to a statement attributed to President Rosser, Boys' High is the winner of the league pennant. This championship was reached on the grounds that the Gilmer street lads won nine games and lost one, whereas Marist, the other contestant for first honors, won eight, tied one and lost one. It is the Marist team which proposes to make a fight on this decision.

A supporter of the Marist team declares that on Thursday of last week an agreement was made between Marist and Boys' High that a series of three games would be played this week to decide the winner, and that the time, place, umpires and other details had already been arranged for playing this postseason series.

The contention put forth by Marist is that the team has a right to ask that the time game be played off. In case they win in the play off, they would be tied in the standing with Boys' High. The latter team won one of games by default. However, it is claimed that the team did not show up on the grounds on the day scheduled for the game, to have the contest formally declared forfeited if they won the game, they will then stand tied with Boys' High, in which case it will be necessary that an extra game or a series be played to determine the pennant winner.

The Chcago White Sox, noted for seasons past as the hitless wonders of baseball, are declaring themselves out of the distinction with a vengeance these days. In the six games played by the White Hose last week, the club piled up a total of 61 hits, for an average a bit better than ten safe swats per game. Also the gang scored a total of fifty-two runs, enabling them to win five of the six games played.

The Windy City entry more than doubled two other clubs in the league in the mater of hits registered, and lacked but one rap of making two for one against the heavy slugging Tigers. The Senators played but three games and registered but twenty-one hits, while the Yankees marked up only twenty-nine in five contests. The Tigers had thirty-one hits in four games. The Athletes who stood next to the White Sox in the number of hits made, won but two of their six games. They had fifty-two safeties.

Hitting in the National league for the week was light all along the line. In five games, the Cubs made thirty-three safeties, and led the field. These were enough for Hresnahan's charges to pet four of the five games played. The Braves came next in safeties with thirty-two, but dropped four of their five battles. The heavy hitting Phillies had but twenty-one hits in four games, and lost three of the contests. The Giants gathered seventeen safe raps in three games, and were defeated twice.

John McGraw drew a good laugh a couple of days ago. It was not over the showing of the Giants, however. He had just read where Addie Brennan had been shipped to the Colonial league by the Chiefs. Addie is one of the fifty-seven who hold a fistic decision over John J.

You can't slip anything over on President O. B. Andrews of the Lookouts, not even if you are figuring to help Mr. Andrews' ball club. The Lookouts' boss turns down a deal for Rube Kissinger, which McCormick had engineered on the grounds that he wants to know something of Kissinger's physical condition, despite the fact that the Lookouts are playing the Pels and McCormick has ample opportunity to gaze on the Rube's knarled form.

The Baltimore Feds are outhitting and outfielding their opponents, yet are last in the league. Knabe can't explain it. Duke Duncan, the nimble Orfole center fielder, is leading the Federal flailers with an average of .638.

"Pop" Schriver, the old National league catcher, is managing Wheeling, W. Va., this season.

Crackers Out to Make It Three Straight--Leverett or Rogers Likely to Oppise Hiett

With a rest of one day between battles, the Crackers and Vols hook up again this afternoon in the third game of their current series. The Crackers finished Saturday the most satisfactory week they have known since the 16d of the league season was pried off. They won five and dropped but one game in six. Three were grabbed from the Travlers and the two played with the Vols were also added to the won column.

They are anxious to begin this week right and expect to take the measure of the Vols in the game this afternoon. Another game Tuesday, and the gang hits the road for a three weeks' trip during which they will visit Chattanooga, Nashville, Memphis and Little Rock. They return here on June 15 to meet the Gulls. Tomorrow will be ladies' day.

In the game this afternoon Manager Smith will use Lindy Hiett to check the opposition. Jim Allen is due today under a system of rotation, but Manager Smith believes that the pounding he had hitters with the Vols would likely find Jim's lefthand shoots easier to hit than they will right hand flinging Manager Schwartz will doubtless employ either Tom Rogers or Bill Leverett.

The game begins at 3:30 o'clock.

Lay-to for a spell and swing on this:

You'll start an old-pal-party via a pipe or a makin's cigarette quick as a flash, as soon as you realize it's a live bet to let your good money rub up against some Prince Albert tobacco. Why, it's like beating back to the bushes for old-home week, P. A.'s so friendly, so chummy-like.

You see, Prince Albert can't bite your tongue, or any other man's; nor parch throats. Because it's made by a patented process that cuts out the bite and parch and lets you hear the song of the joy'us jimmy pipe and the makin's cigarette all the day long!

PRINCE ALBERT

just hands you home-made questions like these: Were you ever pipe-happy? Did you ever hit a brand that just pushed pleasure against your palate? The kind that sort of teased your smokeappetite for some more fire-up, then another—and so on, right to the pillow-period!

Well, that's P. A., no matter how you hook it up—pipe or cigarette. It just-jams-joy into your system! You nail that fact hot off the bat, because it's case-cards information! And handed out to you for personal and immediate attention as being about as real and true as you've heard since Hector was a pup!

P. A. is sold in the toppy red bag for the price of a jitney ride, 5c; tidy red tin, 10c; pound and half-pound tin humidors—and—the classy pound crystal-glass humidor with the sponge-moistener top that's not only a joy'us thing to have at home and at the office, but it keeps P. A. in the highest state of perfection.

Here is Casimiro Laredo, 104 years old, who lives in Watsonville, Cal. He has remarkable memory and clearly recalls the war in Spain in 1822, when he was a lad of 12 summers. Laredo has been a smoker all his life, and today he seeks no dearer, no truer friend than his old jimmy pipe. Laredo has just been elected a member of the Prince Albert 'old-time jimmy pipe' club.

Market in New York Closed 1 to 3 Points Higher Than Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 24.—Italy's declaration of war had evidently been discounted in the cotton market, and trading was very quiet early today. Owing to the holiday there were no cables from Liverpool and after opening steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points the local market sold about 5 to 7 points net higher in sympathy with the firmness of the stock market, and on reports of rather unsettled weather in the south. Realizing checked the advance around 9.95 for October and caused reactions of 2 or 3 points, but the market showed a steady undertone and offerings were limited.

An easier tone in New Orleans and a few southern selling orders were followed by a reaction of about ten points in the market here during the middle of the morning, but offerings were light and trading later was very quiet with the market showing practically no feature. Active months ruled a point or two under Saturday's closing finish shortly after midday.

Spot cotton quiet; middling upland, 9.70; sales 1,000 bales.

The market was very quiet during the early afternoon with prices ruling about 2 to 5 points net lower.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, May 24.—The formal declaration of war by Italy, long awaited for as a bullish influence, did not have any great effect on cotton values around the opening of the market today. Only moderate buying developed on which prices rose 5 to 8 points.

A rumor that Washington had received the German reply to the note on the Lusitania and that it was unfavorable, checked the upward tendency and put prices by noon five to seven points under Saturday's close.

A dull but steady tone ruled in the afternoon. At 1:30 prices were a point over Saturday's finals.

ATLANTA BOY WOUNDED IN BATTLE OF ARRAS

Kiffin Rockwell, former Atlanta boy who, with his brother, Paul Rockwell, formerly a newspaper man of Atlanta, is serving in the French Foreign Legion, was seriously wounded in the battle of Arras, according to a recent letter from Paul Rockwell to friends in Atlanta.

According to the letter, Paul Rockwell has been granted a three months' leave of absence on account of ill health. He left at once for his brother's bedside. If at the end of the three months he has regained his health he will rejoin his regiment; otherwise he may return to the United States, the letter states.

What It Was

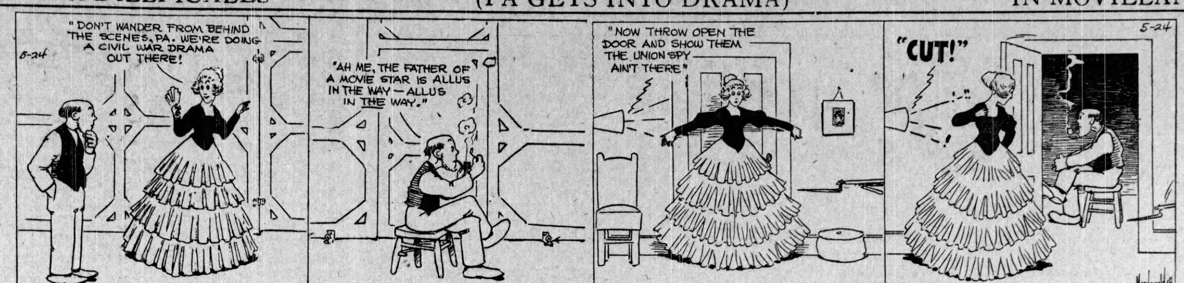

(From Judge.)

Six-year-old returned from his first day at Sunday school, very proud that he had learned the song that the children sang as they marched into the assembly room.

"What was the song?" asked fond parent of orthodox persuasion.

"Onward, Christian Science!"

STOCKS

Bethlehem Steel, Lehigh Valley and General Electric Off, Union Pacific Up

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 24.—Italy's formal entrance into the European conflict was met by another immediate rise in war shares at the opening of today's market. Crucible Steel, last week's sensational feature, opened with an exchange of 5,000 shares at 34 to 34¾, a new high price and a gain of 2¾ over last Saturday. Bethlehem Steel, Westinghouse and other issues coming within the scope of war contracts, rose 1 to 3 points. United States Steel was in good demand, advancing a point, and metal shares gained material fractions or more. Investment Railways joined the rise in more moderate degree but reacted on confident absorption.

Prices made secondary declines in the early afternoon to the accompaniment of rumors suggesting further delaying to the German note to Washington. Trading became stagnant later at the lower level.

Bonds were irregular.

Crucible steel recovered some of its early prominence in the late dealings and obscure specialties, notably Colorado Fuel, became suddenly active at substantial advances.

The close was firm.

GRAIN

Wheat Closed Unchanged to 3-4c Off--Corn, Oats, Pork, Lard and Sides Strong

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, May 24.—Although Italy's declaration of war tended to favor wheat bears the effect seemed to have been largely discounted. After opening ¼ to ⅞c lower, the market rallied, then sagged again.

Later May wheat became congested, but the deferred months remained weak. The close was nervous at the same as Saturday night, to ¾ lower.

Fine weather eased corn. It opened ⅛@¼ to ½ lower, then declined moderately.

Smallness of country offerings led to a corn rally, and it closed firm ⅛@¼ to ⅝c above Saturday night.

Oats felt the influence of excellent field conditions.

Provisions held steady.

GOSSIP

Weather Report, Crop Advices, Expert Opinion and Newspaper Coment

COTTON GOSSIP

E. F. Hutton & Co. say:

On Saturday there were scattered showers in Tennessee and Arkansas. On Sunday thunder showers were had in the south Atlantic states. Elsewhere the weather was generally cloudy to clear. Forecasts for today and tomorrow are for thunder showers except in the southwest where fair weather is predicted. Political news still the controlling factor in the market and has tended to check speculation. Trade interests, however, are good buyers on all recessions. Think long side of cotton the best.

Liverpool market will remain closed today, reopening on Tuesday and closing again on Friday and Saturday of this week.

London.—Cotton yarns are firmer, being influenced in price by the cost of raw cotton. Cloths are generally dull and irregular. Inquiries from India are increasing, but China and South America show no improvement in trade here. Italy's entrance into the war may throw further South American trade to the United States, the Commercial says, as Italy has an important trade with the southern hemisphere, particularly the Argentine.

Italy's official participation in the war should be construed bullish, as it means earlier peace and a favorable outcome of the allies. A little patience on the bull side will result in good profits.—M. D. Burnley.

Kentucky, Tennessee: Generally fair tonight and Tuesday.

Virginia: Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday, gentle to moderate west and southwest winds.

Georgia: Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; gentle winds mostly west and southwest.

Alabama, Mississippi: Thunder showers this afternoon or tonight; Tuesday partly cloudy; gentle, shifting winds.

Louisiana: Tonight and Tuesday partly cloudy; light, variable winds on the coast.

Arkansas: Tonight and Tuesday thunder-showers.

Oklahoma: Tonight and Tuesday unsettled, probably thunder showers.

East Texas: Tonight and Tuesday unsettled; light to moderate southerly winds on the coast.

West Texas: Tonight and Tuesday unsettled, showers in the panhandle.

Map shows favorable weather, part cloudy to cloudy entire, light scattered showers except a heavier rainfall locally. Warm night temperatures.

STOCK GOSSIP

Italy officially declares war against Austria. Italian ambassador at Vienna recalled. Austrian ambassador to Rome handed passports. Supreme court meets at noon. Bank statement shows increase of $7,075,330 in surplus reserve, bringing item up to $180,314,560. Reports from various sections of United States show that in all industrial centers more men are being employed and at an advancing scale of wages. Cost of war estimated at two million and hour. Japan's expenditure for the war up to present approximately fifty millions and nine millions more asked for. Pennsylvania railroad lets contract for another portion of its big equipment order. Average prices of Twelve Industrials 84.89, up .68; Twenty Railways 93.13, up .38.

E. F. Hutton & Co. say:

The official entrance of Italy into the war leaves Germany's answer the dominating factor. The action of our markets indicates that that is expected to be favorable. Until that is positively known, we are liable to have violent fluctuations, but they should not be as acute as those following the Lusitania episode, as the market looks to be pretty well liquidated. The extraordinary commercial and financial position of our country is making itself known to the rest of the world; bank reserves the largest on record, with a steady inflow of gold. This must mean a renewal of commercial activity as well as speculative. For the moment there is quietness in the copper situation, but the steel trade is steadily progressing. War stocks are in favor again. Railroads, such as Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio and the Traction stocks look to be bargains at present prices.

The strength of Union Pacific is construed to mean a favorable note, for it is believed that the interest which control property would not allow an advance unless they had favorable news of that kind.

Basel, Switzerland.—A dispatch received here by Wolff News Agency, says Germany has declared war against Italy.

Boston.—A round lot of August spelter sold Saturday at 17 cents per pound.

Quite a short interest was made in the recent drop in Mexican Petroleum. They seem to be covering up today.

Some very good interests in the room have taken hold of Cast Iron Pipe and are talking higher prices.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. say: Wheat shows decided heavy tone with new outside buying still lacking and apparently a decided waning in bullish influence of crop damage reports.

Still feel that corn will drag lower.

Oats—See nothing on which to expect higher prices.

Snow estimates Missouri crop at 30,000,000.

Advance in wheat has been on small orders.

Provisions—Look for good buying from Europe during the week.

HAYWARD AND CLARK COTTON LETTER.

NEW ORLEANS, May 24.—Political and financial news over Sunday was not of a nature to remove apprehension. Italy has officially declared war.

The leading financial center of the world, Wall street, dwells exhaustively on the importance and the adverse effect on trade caused by the weakening finances abroad, due to a combination of causes and reflected in the steady decline in foreign exchange rates.

There is plenty of money in this country, which explains the steadiness of the stock market, but trade exchange with Europe is becoming increasingly difficult and shrinking. Wall Street Review says crop accounts are very favorable. Acreage planted has not been reduced as much as was expected. The spring advance in cotton has stimulated farmers to increase their cotton area.

The Wall Street Financial Review says the security market rests upon solid foundations and thtere will be no serious disturbance, whatever the political developments may be.

Washington reports show more determined action by the government towards defending and restoring neutral shipping, which is expected to result in some good in the near future.

Weather conditions over Sunday were favorable, scattered showers, but no disturbing rainfall except locally in the Augusta district. Indications are for generally cloudy weather; scattered thunder showers.

A favorable weekly government report is likely for Wednesday.

Dry goods market reviews show an excellent home trade, but say that forward business in printed and colored cotton is checked by the restricted dyestuff supply which from week to week is becoming more potent in affecting trade.

Our market opened higher in the form of a rebound from Saturday's depression and on some buying on the Italian declaration of war, butt he view of possibly earlier peace, in consequence, could not hold before the actual present conditions and the market soon weakened to 9.60 for October on a general feeling of apprehension over politics and the weakening of finances abroad, which means a decreasing buying power.

ATTACKS REPULSED, DECLARES OFFICIAL ROMAN STATEMENT

ed their services to the national cause. Students not yet called to the colors, but anxious to enlist, are besieging the military authorities.

Announcement already has been made that volunteers eighteen years of age or older who are physically fit will be accepted by the government for the duration of the war.

Members of yacht clubs and boat clubs in all parts of the kingdom almost to a man have offered the government their services and the use of their craft. Persons in all walks of life have pledged their services to the Red Cross and gifts of all kinds are being received by that organization.

Expressions of regret are being heard on every side that the nation is unable at present to assist persons of Italian blood or sympathies who are being arrested wholesale by the Austrian authorities in Trent, Triest and Dalmatia. Intense indignation has been caused by reports that thousands of Italians have been detained at stations along the Austrian and German frontiers where they have been subjected to ill treatment.

A trainload of Italians arriving at Cormons, near Goritz, are reported to have been driven into an open field by Austrian gendarmes and forced to remain there all night in a heavy rain without food. Several children are said to have died because of this experience. The women and children were permitted to cross into Italian territory the next day, but all the men were detained.

King Constantine Is Reported Improved

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The condition of King Constantine, of Greece, is improved, according to a dispatch received today at the legation here. The king's fever has abated, the message says.

$20,000,000 of Ships Now Prizes of Italy

ROME, May 23.—(Via Paris, May 24.)—The value of Austrian and German ships now in Italian ports, which have become prizes of war, is estimated at more than 100,000,000 francs ($20,000,000).

Italian Warships to Relieve French Patrol

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Italy's first military move following her declaration of war on Austria was awaited with tense interest here today. In army circles it was believed taht her first land blow would be struck against the Austrian frontier. There the forces of both Italy and Austria-Hungary in large numbers face each other and both sides have made great preparations in the way of fortifications and other protective measures. On account of the mountainous character of this territory fighting of a difficult nature is looked for.

In naval circles it was thought that the Italian fleet which is now in the Adriatic would engage the Austrian fleet in those waters, relieving French warships on guard there to go to the Dardanelles.

Announcement of Italy's action did not come as a surprise to officials here where for weeks it had been apparent that the negotiations between Italy and Austria would end in a declaration of war. Official notification from Ambassador Page at Rome of Italy's action was awaited before the issuance by President Wilson of a neutrality proclamation. Finishing touches were being put upon the document today.

Vienna Is Stirred by Patriotic Demonstrations

AMSTERDAM, Via London, May 24.—Patriotic manifestations reached a climax in Vienna last night, according to a telegram from the Austrian capital.

Italy's declaration of war and Emperor Francis Joseph's manifesto calling on the army, navy and all the people for patriotic devotion was published in special newspaper editions about 9 o'clock. Crowds immediately gathered spontaneously in all parts of the city, and thousands paraded the streets singing patriotic songs and cheering the emperor, the monarchy, the allied army and navy.

Before the war ministry patriotic speeches were delivered. Officers and soldiers were greeted with tremendous applause. Indignation against Italy found expression in cries of "Down with traitors! Down with Italy!" No attacks on Italians were made, however.

The town council of Triest has been dissolved by the emperor, as that city is subject only to the imperial government. The government of Triest, in turn, has dissolved the town council of Goritz.

The Prague newspaper Nardoni Politika says editorially.

"The monarchy has no fear of the war, which it will undergo victoriously and gloriously with all the more certitude because of the loyal assistance of Germany."

The Hlas Naroda of Prague declares the people of Austria and Hungary prefer a passage at arms with Italy to an untrustworthy and untenable friendship purchased with heavy sacrifices.

er offensive operations with some success. Although not confirmed from any official source reports are published here that Germany, faced with Italy as a new foe in the south, will have to shorten her western line, and that consequently she is preparing to withdraw from the advanced line in Flanders.

The reported evacuation of Bruges is said to be a part of that movement.

British "Advances" Repulsed, Declares Berlin Claim

BERLIN, May 24.—(Via London.)—The following statement was issued today at the war office:

"Several British advances between Neuve Chapelle and Givenchy, and French attacks on the northern slope of the Lorette hills, at Ablain and north and south of Neuville, were repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy."

"One hundred and fifty prisoners were taken.

"Between the Meuse and the Moselle artillery battles continue. In the forest of La Petre the French suffered losses during a new and unsuccessful attack.

"In the eastern and southeastern theaters the situation is unchanged."

Russians Capture City In Asiatic Turkey

TIFLIS, Trans-Caucasia, Sunday, May 23.—(Via Petrograd, May 24, and London.)—A Russian detachment has occupied Van, in Asiatic Turkey, bringing relief to the Armenians being besieged there by the Turks. The Turks retreated toward Bitlis.

Van has been the scene of persecution of Armenians by Turks and Kurds for several months. The situation has been described as very serious.

Ancient Turk Gunboat Sunk by Enemy Submarine

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 23.—(By wireless to Berlin and London, May 24.)—An official statement issued tonight by the Turkish general staff said:

"The twenty-five-year-old gunboat Faik-I-Deria was sunk this afternoon by a hostile submarine. Two members of the crew were killed, but all the others escaped without injury."

The Peik-I-Deria, built in 1890, displaced 808 tons.

Austro-Germans Now Are on Defensive in Galicia

(From Answers.)

PETROGRAD, May 24.—(Via London.)—The Austro-German forces in Galicia now are on the defensive, and their active operations consist chiefly of counter attacks, according to an official statement issued last night by the Russian general staff. Slight Russian progress is claimed on the left bank of the lower San, and it is said all Austro-German assaults in the southeastern theater of operations were repulsed.

The communication follows:

"In the Bzura region the enemy continues to occupy strongly organized positions. Considerable enemy forces which had crossed to the left bank of the Dubyssa, near Rossijeny, again have been driven back over the river.

"On the Narew front in the valley of the Pissa we renewed our attack on the enemy.

"On the left bank of the Vistula the enemy, supported by intense artillery fire, has made fruitless attempts during the last few days to drive back our pickets, who now are on the left bank of the Rawka.

"South of the Pilica, in the region of Klymentow, the enemy attempted an offensive, but by energegic counter attacks on the night of the 22d we repulsed them, capturing more than 1,000 prisoners and four machine guns.

"In Galicia the enemy generally has assumed the defensive, his active operations mostly taking the form of counter attacks. Between the Vistula and Przemysl we progressed slightly on the left bank of the lower San and repulsed four counter attacks in the region of Rudnik. Northeast of Seniawa we dislodged the enemy from the village of Dobra.

"We successfully repulsed counter attacks on the night of the 22d on the front Makowiska-Wetlin.

"Between Przemysl and the great marsh of the Dneister, the enemy persisted on the 21st in fruitless attempts to break our front between the village of Gousskow and Krynica. On the night of the 22d our troops opened an offensive in the region nearer the Dneister and, pressing the enemy, took 900 prisoners and four machine guns.

"On the front on the right bank of the Dneister in the Shonsko region there was a stubborn fight during the 21st. The enemy repeatedly reached our trenches, but each time was driven back. We captured five 17 offices, 410 men and some machine guns.

"From Dolina to Koolomea there was violent artillery fire."
